By Gladstone Williams.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Further demands for congressional action to correct conditions complained of recently by The Atlanta Constitution in its editorial attack on the operations of large corporate holding companies were voiced today by two democratic members of the senate.

Senator John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, asserted that federal regulation of interstate traffic in inflated securities must be undertaken before a firm foundation for the return of prosperity can be laid, while Senator C. C. Dill, of the state of Washington, characterized the overcapitalization and merger activities of certain of the large holding companies as "one of the most astounding monetary evils of modern times."

Both senators strongly commended The Constitution for the movement it has launched to bring about a congressional inquiry of the situation. Senator Dill, however, was willing to go a step further, declaring that enough facts are already at hand on the holding company situation for congress to use as a basis for needed legislation.

Different Ideas.

Mr. Bankhead, who succeeds to the seat of the redoubtable Tom Heflin, is a quiet-minded southerner whose conception of what a national legislator should do and say is radically different from the views held by his predecessor. He has a brother who represents Alabama in the house of representatives, and between the two of them they have been discussing something worthwhile during their stay in Washington.

"I believe," said Senator Bankhead, "the evils of stock holding contributed materially to the wholesale withdrawal of money from the pockets of innocent investors during the past 10 years. A thorough investigation of the whole situation relative to high finance, stock juggling, overcapitalization and profit-grabbing should be made by a subcommittee of the senate, and upon completion of his investigation no time should be lost in enacting regulatory legislation. A nationwide 'skin game' in stock jobs has been worked on the American people for years. Such a game has been played in my state and I presume that every state in the Union has experienced the same."

"In my judgment, so-called holding companies can be made all right, but they are not all right today. With the protection of adequate blue sky laws there is no reason why holding companies cannot be made servants of the people instead of their enemies."

Open Mind.

"As to short selling on the large stock exchanges I have an open mind. But there is no question but what short selling has been most injurious. I am unalterably opposed to the present system of short selling, and it should either be rigidly regulated or prohibited. A state is powerless to handle the situation."

New Strength Gathered
as Committee Prepares for Voting Wednesday;
Luncheon Is Planned.

Gathering new strength to launch an avalanche of information concerning the benefits of eastern time for Atlanta, the committee headed by George West rested Sunday. Plans were made to take up where the workers left off Saturday when scores of physicians, Parent-Teacher members, businessmen and private citizens went on record as favoring a time change for more daylight hours.

With intended activities described as intensive, the campaign committee and members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce planned radio talks, luncheons and appearances before organizations to boost the campaign. Speakers will appear before Parent-Teacher organizations and civic clubs today and Tuesday.

Special Luncheon Planned.

A special eastern time luncheon will be given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday at 12:15 o'clock in hall No. 2 of the Chamber of Commerce building. A lavish program of entertainment will be given, and speakers will reiterate the benefits to be received from one more day of daylight each day. Reports will be made from the various organizations taking part in the campaign.

Mr. West talked from radio station WGST Sunday night at 7:45 o'clock and explained the many business and social benefits to be derived from eastern time schedules. He referred to the indorsements of the change by physicians and others. He pointed out the relatively small number of con-

Walker Is Taken Ill On Eve of Mooney Plea

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, who is expected to appear in court in behalf of Tom Mooney, was taken ill by a heavy cold today.

After a night of virtual sleeplessness on account of a severe cold, the mayor was taken to St. Patrick's hospital, where he was diagnosed as having influenza. The physician prescribed rest and advised the mayor to refrain from exertion tonight.

Dr. Gallway said Mayor Walker's lungs were heavily congested and that the condition might develop into influenza.

Walker, who has spent many hours in view of the case of Mooney, for whom he will seek a pardon Tuesday at the hands of Governor Bugh, attended a noon mass at St. Patrick's church in spite of his indisposition. After returning to his hotel he was persuaded to call in Dr. Gallway.

The physician reassured the mayor in part and said that with care in the meantime he should be able to make his plea to the governor in behalf of the man who has served 15 years in San Quentin, after conviction on a murder charge following the bombing of a San Francisco parade.

Luther Asserts Germany's Debts Still Are Too Great Despite Aid

(Note: Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, was asked by The Associated Press to outline Germany's position regarding the forthcoming examination of her financial condition, particularly with regard to her capacity to pay reparations, by an advisory committee of the bank for international settlements. He replied with the following statement.)

BY DR. HANS LUTHER.

President of the Reichsbank.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—The Reichsbank's sale of gold and foreign bills during recent weeks has attracted unusual attention both in Germany and abroad.

The opinion is widespread that Germany, under the standstill agreement and in view of her active trade balance, ought even to be able to replenish her supply of gold and foreign exchange.

However, this so-called standstill agreement contains so many exceptions and gaps that the unfavorable development of gold and foreign exchange reserves of the Reichsbank is in the largest measure explained by it.

Figures published some time ago by the Reichsbank show that repayments of credits exercise a determining in-

NATIONAL INCOME DROPS 7 BILLION DURING PAST YEAR

Revenue Bureau Report
Shows Sharp Decrease in Income Tax Collections in All Classes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A decrease during 1930 of $7,073,865,119 in the individual net income of the nation as compared with 1929 was reported today by the internal revenue bureau.

The number of those having incomes above $500,000 was cut in half.

Income of individuals fell off 29.12 per cent to $17,220,753,820 and 574,705 fewer persons filed income tax returns. The tax collected on the income showed a 52.20 per cent drop of $517,247,417 to $473,680,563.

Corporation income tax returns revealed net income of $5,027,312,995, a decrease of $4,639,004,143. Corporations paid $618,246,431 in tax, a decline of $428,739,406.

While the tax collections from both individuals and corporations were less in 1930, the rate of tax was one per cent higher than in the previous year on normal and corporation income.

The bureau reported for 1930 that 3,378,552 individuals and 408,110 corporations filed income tax returns, against 4,034,702 individuals and 405,515 corporations in 1929. Of the individuals filing returns last year, 1,946,675 were taxable as compared with 2,465,385, while 214,412 corporations were taxable as compared with 293,708 in 1929.

In 1930 the taxpayers took deductions for loss on sale of real estate, stocks, bonds and similar property totaling $1,235,055,490, compared with $661,773,396 in 1929. Deductions in 1929 for miscellaneous reasons totaled $3,093,381,740, while in 1930 they amounted to $2,829,058,016. Deductions for contributions to charity, scientific, religious organizations and similar organizations in 1930 aggregated $405,740,765 as compared with $518,833,347.

In 1930 profits from real estate, stocks, bonds, etc., amounted to $773,515,899, against $279,763,714 the previous year.

The report showed a sharp decrease in the number of wealthy persons, the number having income of $500,000 or more, and the number having income of $100,000 or more.

The number of persons having income of more than $1,000,000 decreased from 504 to 149.

The $300,000 to $500,000 class had 2,240,029 in 1929, 808,805 in 1930, against 820,936,135, the $500,000 to $1,000,000 class had income of $207,742,387, against $683,540,463, and the $1,000,000 and over class had income of $1,155,135,330.

The $300,000 to $500,000 class paid $22,980,629 in 1929, the previous year, against $96,255,257 the previous year. The $500,000 to $1,000,000 class paid $33,825,869 against $105,193,713, and the class having income of $1,000,000 or more paid $90,470,513 against $188,144,252.

The gross income reported in the individual returns was $21,965,505,850, with deductions aggregating $4,444,752,230, against $28,762,965,430 in 1929, when there were deductions of $4,243,068,453.

Wages and salaries as usual accounted for the major part of the total gross income, amounting to $9,380,395,395 as compared with $10,740,029,412 the previous year. Business reported net income of $2,539,280,909 against $3,295,626,192 in 1929, while income from partnership was $1,080,880,137 against $1,816,841,499.

Profits from sale of real estate, stocks and bonds, except that taxed as capital net gains, aggregated $775,315,899, as compared with $2,230,763,714, while capital net gain from assets held more than two years was $549,746,754 as compared with $2,316,193,459.

Emptying of U. S. Warehouses Seen as Better Business Sign

Department of Commerce Report Shows Greatly Diminished Stocks of Manufactured Goods Awaiting Sale.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Hoover received the cheering word today that America's bulging warehouses are being relieved of the glut of overproduction of manufactures.

This was shown in Secretary Lamont's annual report. Stocks of manufactured goods had dwindled so at the end of the fiscal year that the situation was akin to 1928, giving reason to expect increased business.

As to raw materials, however, the secretary of commerce was unable to say the same. Surpluses in general were undiminished.

Mr. Hoover heard again that his monetary proposal of last June "had a salutary effect on business sentiment in this country and abroad," which was promptly reflected in an upturn in commodity and security values.

To measure industrial activity in this country, the commerce department chief selected the federal reserve board's index of production. It averaged 20 per cent less last fiscal year than in the one before and 25 per cent below the unprecedented volume of 1928-29.

But despite the abnormal business situation, Mr. Lamont emphasized, industrial production for the year ended June 30 was of greater volume than in 1920 and 1922, "and 31 per cent more than in the depression year 1921."

During the past fiscal year the department of commerce index of domestic raw material stocks averaged 7.4 per cent larger than in the preceding year, while the index for June, 1931, was 17 per cent above that of the same month of 1930.

"The situation with respect to stocks of manufactured goods is much more satisfactory," the report said. "After rising above pre-depression levels during the fiscal year 1929-1930 the index has since turned downward and at the end of the past fiscal year was about 6 per cent below the preceding year, and at the same level as in June, 1928."

The secretary found foreign trade not so bad as indicated by dollars and cents values. Exports were 34 per cent lower in dollar values and imports 37 per cent under the previous year on June 30, but studies of the department showed that the actual volume of exports was down only 29 per cent. Despite the decreases exports were 2 per cent above the 1922-1923 average.

INCOME DECREASE SLIGHT IN STATE

158 Persons Pay Tax on Incomes in Excess of $50,000 in 1930.

By Gladstone Williams.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Despite the market crash of the year previous, 158 persons in the state of Georgia paid federal income taxes on net incomes for 1930 in excess of $50,000 each, the treasury department revealed today in its annual report on collections of internal revenue.

Total collections on individual and corporation returns in the state, representing payments of income tax for the year 1930, amounted to $8,890,931, the report showed.

Of the total $8,104,989 was derived from corporations and the remaining $785,942 from individuals. The year previous individual returns yielded a total of $3,806,000, while corporation returns amounted to $4,298,000.

The year 1930 saw a total of 32,289 individual returns filed from Georgia and 5,738 corporation returns.

In the state reported net incomes of corporations filing returns was $62,280,000, compared with $64,903,000 for the year before, representing a loss of $2,623,000.

That of individuals was $163,181,000, contrasted with a net income of $167,063,000 the previous year, a small reduction of $3,882,000.

Fulton county led the state in the number of individual returns filed, with 15,441, of which 15,062 came from Atlanta.

The average net income of Georgia individuals filing returns was $5,053 last year, as against an average of $5,074 for the year before. The average tax paid per individual return was $58.28.

Of the various classifications of individual returns filed in the state, the largest single lot came from those reporting net incomes of $3,000 to $4,000. There were 4,562 of these.

In the higher brackets, 54 persons in the state reported net incomes of $50,000 and $70,000; 26 between $60,000 and $70,000; 16 between $70,000 and $80,000; 13 between $80,000 and $90,000; 13 between $90,000 and $100,000; 17 between $100,000 and $150,000; nine between $150,000 and $200,000; three from $200,000 to $250,000; two from $250,000 to $300,000; one from $300,000 to $400,000; three from $400,000 to $500,000, and one from $500,000 to $750,000.

Straus Home Robbed Of $90,000 in Gems

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Theft of jewelry valued at about $90,000 and $90,000 from the home of Herbert M. Straus, president of Bamberger & Company, Newark, was disclosed by police today.

The robbery occurred some time between 10:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. yesterday, police said.

DR. K. G. MATHESON, EX-HEAD OF TECH, IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Noted Educator and President of Atlanta Institution for 10 Years Passes at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Dr. Kenneth G. Matheson, 67, president of the Georgia School of Technology from 1906 until 1922, and for many years a leading figure in American educational work, died early Sunday morning at his home in Bryn Mawr, Pa. He had been president of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, since he left Tech. Dr. Matheson was stricken with a heart attack early Saturday while attending to his school duties.

Dr. Matheson was regarded as one of the most progressive educators in America. It was under his leadership that the Greater Tech campaign of 1921 was conducted, the drive bringing the school many thousands of dollars and many additional students. He was a frequent visitor to Atlanta, where he had many friends in addition to a daughter, Mrs. George E. Youmans, of 718 Argonne avenue, N. E., who, before her marriage, was Miss Mary Matheson.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, and Dr. Matheson's successor here, stated Sunday that he had received word of his predecessor's death, that notices will be read to all classes at Tech today, and that a special observance will be held in his memory.

Brittain Deplores Passing.

"He was my personal friend," said Dr. Brittain, "and did a great work for Georgia Tech. We all feel a great sadness and sorrow at his passing, for he was always close to us. Education in America loses a great man."

Definite funeral arrangements have not as yet been announced, but it was understood that Dr. Matheson will be buried at Cheraw, S. C., the family home.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Youmans, of Atlanta, and Mrs. W. W. Smith, of Columbia, S. C.

'POOLS OF PROFIT' HIT BY BLANSHARD

Forum Speaker Lambasts 'High Finance' and Wall Street Gambling.

By R. E. POWELL.

Danger signals that point "more and more to the necessity for government control of the pools of money," he said, "are being flashed in the United States are to be averted, were hoisted before the Atlanta Forum Association Sunday afternoon by Paul Blanshard, lecturer in a blistering arraignment of political indifference to incompetent public service."

Using for his subject "Racketeering, Low and High," Blanshard, with a mixture of soft sarcasm and stinging ridicule, contrasted the Chicago performances of the Windy City's gangster overlords, Al Capone and his more polished racketeering in high finance which he placed on the doorstep of Wall Street.

He then turned to the "pools of New York," he said, "are liquidation, many and Wall Street, and the greatest of these is Wall Street. Beside Wall Street, the gambling protected by the government, is the most effective mixture of soft sarcasm and stinging ridicule, contrasted the Chicago performances of the Windy City's gangster overlords, Al Capone and his more polished racketeering in high finance which he placed on the doorstep of Wall Street."

Blanshard also lauded him for his deeply religious nature and for his high character.

Lady Astor Subscribes To Chest Across Ocean

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Trans-Atlantic telephone service came to the aid of philanthropy recently.

Speaking from her home in England, Lady Nancy Astor, native of Virginia, gave a prompt reply to an appeal sent to her by the community fund of Richmond, Va. "Put me down for $200," Lady Astor phoned. "I'd love to be there to see the campaign go over the top. I know it's going over. Virginians are too proud to fail in the emergency."

THREE ARE KILLED, SIXTEEN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Fog Pall Chiefly Blamed for Series of Traffic Crashes in Georgia Over Week-End.

By The Associated Press.

Three deaths and injuries to 16 persons in automobile accidents over the week-end in Georgia were attributed, most of them, to a heavy fog that blanketed the state. One person was killed by a train.

Dr. W. W. Smith, of Clio, was killed when he was struck by a train near Macon when an automobile driven by T. Edgar White, of Atlanta, loomed out of the fog. In attempting to dodge the car, White's machine struck Walker and J. B. Long, also of Knoxville. Walker was killed and Long injured.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Stewart, Mrs. C. R. Ray and Mrs. Olin Kroglund, all of Columbus, were injured near Roberta Saturday night in an automobile accident attributed to the fog.

Mrs. Evelyn Maynard and three small Maynard children were injured when struck by an automobile while they were waiting for a street car in East Point.

W. B. Williams, 23, of Columbus, was killed yesterday when an automobile struck a hog in Harris county. Robert Ritch, of Columbus, was injured.

Tom Bryant, 68, Manchester farmer, was killed by a train at Greenville Saturday. Officers said they believed he had gone to sleep on the track.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Improved in condition of two passenger automobiles near Evans, Ga., between Midway and Danien on the Coastal highway, resulted this morning in one fatality and serious injuries to several persons.

The casualties are:

Dr. W. W. Smith, Clio, Ga., dead.

Mrs. W. W. Smith, his wife, both less broken, and other injuries.

W. B. Williams, 23, of Columbus, Dr. Smith's son-in-law, left leg broken.

Further Improvement Made by Tom Mix

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Improved in condition of Tom Mix, motion picture star who is suffering from peritonitis in the Hollywood hospital, was reported today by his physician, Dr. R. Nichol Smith and Dr. Gurna Stout.

Their bulletin are:

"We are very optimistic this morning. At present, we report a definite improvement in Tom Mix's condition."

Attendants said Mix apparently was resting last night and added to the apprehension of the physicians.

Mother Leaps in Front of Auto To Save 3 Children From Death

The natural instinct of mother love flamed high in the breast of Mrs. Evelyn Maynard, of 400 Pryor, S. W., early Sunday night as she saw an automobile swerve toward her three small children. Mrs. Maynard, with heroic sacrifice, leaped in front of her brood to protect them, but in spite of her action one of the children may die.

Hardy Maynard, 9, the eldest, is in Grady hospital with a fractured pelvis and internal injuries that may prove fatal, according to physicians. Ethelene Maynard, 7, has a fracture of the collarbone and possible internal injuries. Margaret Maynard, 8, received a sprain of the shoulder and bruises and cuts.

Although she took the brunt of the collision, Mrs. Maynard escaped serious injury. She was cut and bruised, but physicians said that she had no broken bones. The accident happened at the Main and Washington street car stop in East Point.

East Point police are holding the driver of the automobile, who gave his name as V. V. Vetter, on charges of drunkenness and reckless driving, police said.

"Incident" Created By Secretary's Purported Statement Now Is Considered Closed, Japanese Officials Say.

LEAGUE RENEWS WORK FOR PEACE

Passing of Danger to Manchurian Capital Revives Optimism in Washington Circles.

By The Associated Press.

Ten thousand Japanese troops yesterday continued to withdraw toward Mukden—away from Chinchow—and Japan's military adventure in Manchuria was coming to an end.

The Japanese foreign office yesterday revoked its criticism of Secretary of State Stimson after he had explained his attitude on the Manchurian conflict, and a spokesman said the incident was closed.

Negotiations were started in Peking for the creation of a neutral zone along the Peiping-Mukden railway, but Marshal Chang Hueh-shiang's headquarters denied that a truce had been signed. The marshal agreed conditionally to evacuate his troops from Chinchow.

Five hundred Chinese bandits occupied the town of Xingkou under the cover of artillery, Peiping heard. A committee of the League council in Paris renewed its work on the draft of a peace proposal, but little progress was said to have been made.

Reports of the withdrawal of Japanese troops encouraged American officials at Washington who have been trying to effect a peaceful settlement of the oriental crisis.

10,000 JAPANESE TROOPS BACKTRACK TO MUKDEN

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The liquidation of Japan's military adventure in Manchuria proceeded rapidly today as 10,000 troops backtracked their advance on Chinchow.

The greater part of the expedition which started down the Peiping-Mukden railway Friday were withdrawn east of the city of Tsitsihar. Two battalions at Tsitsihar, two battalions at Kirin, and all others inside the South Manchuria railway zone.

Although the disposition of the Japanese troops was not announced, it was believed they will be encamped for the time being. Two battalions at Tsitsihar, two battalions at Kirin, and all others inside the South Manchuria railway zone.

JAPANESE FOREIGN OFFICE REVOKES STIMSON ATTACK

TOKYO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Japanese foreign office today revoked its criticism of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson for statements on the Manchurian situation which had been misconstrued as his, and said the situation had been entirely clarified.

"Mr. Stimson assures that he did not make any such statement as I thought from press dispatches," said a spokesman for the Japanese foreign office, which yesterday accused the American secretary of state of "losing his head" and "flying into fulmination."

"Therefore I consider my impulsive expressions yesterday entirely uncalculated for," the spokesman continued today. "I desire to state that any part of the statement which was improper is hereby revoked. The assurance given by Mr. Stimson to Ambassador Debiich clarifies the situation entirely to our satisfaction. The incident is closed."

UTES FOR JOHN HILL

WILL BE HELD TODAY

Body of Prominent Engineer
To Be Taken To Columbus
For Interment.

Final rites for John Hill, prominent Atlanta architect and textile engineer, who died Saturday at a private hospital, will be conducted at 9:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill, with the Rev. W. W. Memminger officiating. The body will be taken to Columbus for interment at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Hill, a graduate of Cornell University, had lived in Atlanta since leaving college. He was southern representative of the Foster Machine Company, of Westfield, Mass., and an engineer for the Simmons Bed Company. As a textile engineer he designed many of the largest cotton mill structures in the south, including the Fulton Bag and Cotton mill, the Atlanta Woolen mills, the Exposition Cotton mills, the Pepperill mills at Lindale, the Scottdale mills and the Bibb Manufacturing Company plants in both Macon and Columbus.

He was married in 1925 to Miss Lois Patillo, of Atlanta, who survives him. They resided at 227 Peachtree circle, N. E. Other survivors include two brothers, Perry and Ben Hill, of Columbus, and a sister, Mrs. John C. Martin, also of Columbus.

Jews To Celebrate Feast of Dedication Here Friday Night

Dr. Louis Mendoza, of Norfolk, Va., will be the guest speaker on a program to be given at the Paschtree temple of the Hebrew Benevolent Congregation at 8 o'clock Friday night as the observance of the eight-day Feast of Dedication or Hanukkah, celebrated by Jews throughout the world, begins. Special musical numbers will be arranged by Dr. Charles Sholdon, organist.

Rabbi David Marx will speak at the service to be held at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning. During the remainder of the feast period, it will be observed in the homes. Sunset Friday marks the inception of the feast. The early rabbis ordained the observance of Hanukkah to quicken the love for religious freedom and to strengthen the historical consciousness of a people against bigotry and intolerance. The Syrians were driven out by followers of the Hasmonian family of Mattathias and his sons, and in 165 B. C. the temple in Jerusalem was restored to its former worship, the ceremony of dedication lasting eight days. The festival to day is marked by the home ceremony of lighting candles, one candle being lit each evening.

Man Commits Suicide After Killing Wife, Girl

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(AP) Police today wrote down as double murder and suicide the deaths of Thomas Meredith Davidson, 60, retired business man; his wife, and their 15-year-old daughter. Their bodies were found in the luxurious Davidson home here late last night. The bodies were on three beds. Police said they believe Davidson, after writing two notes, spoke of inability to "stand the strain," shot his daughter, Catherine, and his wife, Norma, then lay down on his own bed and committed suicide with the same pistol.

"Everything has been going so badly lately I cannot stand the strain," one note read. "I am afraid to leave Norma and Catherine with conditions as they are."

MRS. E. T. CASWELL,
EX-ATLANTAN, PASSES

Mrs. E. T. Caswell, 56, daughter of the late Rev. H. G. Mitchell and sister of Alderman Farris A. Mitchell, member of the general council of Atlanta, died early Sunday morning at her home in Miami, Fla. She had been in ill health for several months.

Born and reared near Sandy Springs, Mrs. Caswell left Atlanta about 16 years ago to take up her residence in Miami. She was a prominent church worker and member of the Methodist church there. Before her marriage she was Miss Georgia Mitchell and had numbers of friends in Atlanta.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by four children, E. M. Henshall, of Atlanta, and J. B. Henshall, Jr., of Miami, children by a former marriage, and Mrs. Mack Loveland and Gene Caswell, of Miami; two brothers, J. T. W. H. Charles G. E. H. Roy N. and Farris A. Mitchell, all of Atlanta; and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Mable and Mrs. J. A. Redmond, also of Atlanta.

Pressure Cooker
School Extended

The cooking school demonstrating the uses of a pressure cooker, which has been held at Sears, Roebuck & Company since last week, will be continued all this week because of popular demand, it is announced by Arthur Wasser, manager of the store. The demonstrations are open to the public. They will start each day at 10 o'clock in the morning, 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 o'clock on Saturday evening. Following the cooking demonstration and sample serving there will be a question and answer period during which time the pressure cooker expert will answer questions relating to the demonstration and about the pressure cooker.

A ham will be given away each day.

PENNY CLUB DAY BY DAY

BY MRS. THOS. K. GLENN

Stewart Jones, manager of the S. & W. Cafeteria, was so pleased with the Thanksgiving collection of 2,452 pennies that he contributed by patrons of his cafeteria that he brought it to the Penny Club headquarters personally. The cafeteria and restaurants of Atlanta have co-operated with the Penny Club since it was first started and we are deeply grateful for the assistance they have given us. Jack Gantt Jr. is the Penny Club treasurer of his home and he will not permit anyone to eat a meal in the house until they have first deposited a penny in the Penny Club bank. When Jack was first made the treasurer of his home he did not have a bank so he bought one himself and he has a penny in the Penny Club bank. I was delighted to meet so enthusiastic a treasurer of a home Penny Club and I appreciate more than I can tell you the diligence with which Jack has watched over the pennies in his home.

Government Interference Blamed For Depression in Address by Key

Too much interference by government with the fair exchange of commodities and too much oppression and injustice in the world are largely responsible for the economic slavery of today, Mayor James L. Key told his audience at the Key Club last night. Mayor Key said that human ownership is not the only slavery and that the world today is full of other forms of bondage.

"If this does not make you happy for a good deed done, I will repay your investment," Mayor Key said. "The depression is the result of too much oppression and injustice in the world and the Christian spirit has got to be instilled into your lawnmakers." Mayor Key said. "When a man becomes a Christian he must be sensible to every obligation of life. You can't make a man good by law. The law of his own human heart makes him good. It is the voluntary acts of human minds and hearts. It takes that kind to save the world."

'Training' Plans for Grudge Match Mapped by Culbertson and Lenz

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(UP)—Ely Culbertson and Sidney S. Lenz, two of the world's foremost contract bridge experts, will go into seclusion tomorrow in preparation for their grudge match, scheduled to begin next Monday and to last six weeks or more.

Culbertson, chief proponent of the approach-fencing bidding, is reported to have arranged an elaborate routine to get himself in shape, while Lenz is said to be sharpening his wits by repeated reading of the multiplication table, by casting out nines from columns of figures and by concentrating on Einstein's theory of relativity.

Both men are maintaining an appearance of nonchalance, though it is well known that each considers New York to be too small a town to hold them both.

Lenz is one of the main trumpslammers of Bridge Headquarters, Inc., the organization formed as a revolt against Culbertson's dominance of the bridge experting field. Lenz, with Oswald Jacoby as his partner, will employ the 1-2-3, or official system, against Culbertson's approach-fencing attack, and the battle will undoubtedly attract worldwide attention.

Culbertson is so sure of himself and his system that he has bet $5,000 against $1,000 that he and his wife can defeat Lenz and Jacoby. Beyond this exchange of money, the match has no other significance, in that bridge teachers and bridge fans throughout the country will watch the trend of battle and the final outcome. Most of them will consider the result as indicating definitely the merits of the two bidding systems.

The match will consist of 150 rubbers. This large number was chosen to eliminate as far as possible, the element of chance. It is likely that the battle will attract as much attention and ballyhoo as a major sports event, the Olympic games, the last day of the meeting, the last day of the championship fight or a McPherson revival. Dr. Evans To Speak Before Conference On Unemployment

Dr. Mercer G. Evans, associate professor of economics at Emory University and an active member of southern and national economic associations, will be one of the speakers of national reputation at a conference on "The Unemployment Program for Congress" today and Tuesday at the Hamilton hotel in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Evans, who has been at Emory for more than seven years, is well known nationally in the field of economics. He aided in the organization of the Southern Economics Association, and takes an active part in its work. He received his bachelor of arts degree at Emory and doctor of philosophy at the University of Chicago.

Others who will participate in the conference include Professor John Dewey, Norman Thomas, Mayors Murphy, of Detroit, and Anderson, of Minneapolis; Dr. Harry Laidler, Dr. Abraham Epstein, Dr. L. M. Rubinstein, William Leiserson, Dr. S. Goldstein, A. J. Muste, Sidney Hillman, Darwin J. Meserole, the Rev. John A. Ryan, Mrs. Harriett Stanton Blatch and Howard W. Williams.

Atlanta Jews
DEBATE WINNERS

Young members of Atlanta Synagogues carried off the honors in debate and athletics in competition with Chattanooga teams at the Atlanta Jewish Educational Alliance last night. The Herdite Junior Club of Atlanta, represented by David Macarov, Harold Noveck and Wolfie Bromberg, won a debate on the question: "Resolved, that the task of leading the Jews out of exile today is greater than the task which confronted Moses." The Atlantans had the affirmative. The negative was taken by Harold Alper, Moses Tandelita and Alvin Schwartz, of the Sons of Israel Club, Chattanooga. The Aaronson Club, of Atlanta,

Size of U. S. Families Show Marked Decrease

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP) Nearly 30,000,000 American families—showing a real decrease in average size—were counted in the 1930 national census. The census bureau announced today it counted 29,981,146 families, including groups living together in boarding houses or institutions. More than 40 per cent, 12,078,345, had radio sets.

For 1930 the population per family was 4.1, compared with 4.3 for 1920, 4.5 for 1910 and 4.9 for 1890. The total of families represented an increase of 21.1 per cent during the past decade.

The largest families were found in North and South Carolina, and the smallest in California and Nevada.

The joint finance committee appointed by the first extra session to wrestle with the problem of an anticipated $12,000,000 deficit by the end of the present biennium on June 30, 1933, will submit a plan for financing the budget. Chairman H. C. Anderson said the plan was satisfactory to bankers who recently refused much-needed loans to the state because expenses were far outdistancing receipts.

Main features of the committee's program are restoration of the 20-cent property tax for 1931 and 1932 only, with a probable yield of at least $6,500,000 in that period, and a slash of approximately $3,400,000 in the estimated biennial expenses.

Other recommendations of the committee are for extension of several existing measures and two new revenue acts—limited severance tax on the business of removing certain natural resources from the soil and a levy on self-insurers under the workmen's compensation act. The committee also prepared a new general revenue bill that raises the rates of some privilege taxes and puts more "teeth" in the administration of all revenue laws.

49 WITNESSES HEARD IN TRIAL OF MINER

MT. STERLING, Ky., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Defense counsel in the mine murder trial of W. B. Jones mustered all its strength today in an effort to tear down the wall of evidence with which the commonwealth, during the past week, has surrounded the Harlan county labor union leader. Jones, charged with plotting and urging the slaying of three of four men killed in a coal strike battle at Evans May 5, is being tried in Montgomery circuit court here on charge of venue. The case being tried concerns the killing of Deputy Sheriff James Daniels, chief peace officer at the Black Mountain coal camp near Evans. Deputy Sheriff Otto Lee, Howard Jones, a commissary clerk, and Carl Richmond, a miner, died in the same battle.

During the past week the state linked together through 49 witnesses a story of sinister plotting, of oaths against the law signed in blood, of meetings conducted under the leadership of Jones in which men were offered cash rewards, weapons and alibis to "get rid of Jim Daniels."

About a dozen state witnesses remain to be heard this week. More than 50 witnesses are to be called by the defense.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT OPENS IN PHILADELPHIA TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(AP) With both auction and contract matches scheduled, the American Bridge League will open its fifth annual national championship tournament here tomorrow.

The tournament committee expects comparatively few entries this year. The events, which include matches for mixed pairs, men's pairs and teams of four and women's pairs and teams.

The committee expects to conclude the tournament matches tomorrow Tuesday, and to devote the remainder of the week to the contract events. Matches are scheduled for pairs and teams of four, men's and women's, and emblematic of the national title to go to the winners.

Games for top-score winners at both auction and contract will be held Saturday, the last day of the meeting. The Bridge League will hold its business session Thursday.

Retiring Fighters Will Take Up Golf In Place of Swords

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Golf bags will take the place of swords tomorrow at the stroke of midnight for three of America's best-known men of war.

Each leaves behind on retirement for age the army or navy a brilliant career of service under the flag. One carries the memory of a stirring controversy with naval superiors which echoed throughout the land. They are Major General Hanson E. Ely, of Independence, Iowa; Major General Fred W. Sladen, of Omaha, and Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, of Yazoo county, Mississippi.

During the past month the three have reached the age of 64 years—at which time all officers of the army and navy must by law be ordered to retired status. Their active terms end at midnight, the last day of the month within which they attained the retirement ages.

After more than 40 years of military activity at home and in foreign lands, each will be left now with many free hours. All three look forward to these hours for two purposes—well-earned rest and recreation. The army, which by practice keeps tabs on its retired officers in the off chance that their services might be required, asked its two retiring generals what they planned to do.

"I'm going to play golf as I have always wanted to play it," was the reply of each. Rear Admiral Magruder was unable to report his definite plans to the navy department beyond a desire to spend some time at New Orleans, his present station, attending to private affairs.

He won a basketball game, 18 to 17, from the Maimonian Club, of Chattanooga. Visitors from Chattanooga and Rome were entertained with a dance following the competitions.

FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR THOMAS MELDRIM

Widely-Known Atlanta Businessman Will Be Buried at West View.

Funeral services for Thomas J. Meldrim, 54, president of the Southeast Granite Company, who died Saturday from a heart attack aboard the Crescent Limited, en route home from New Orleans, will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill with Bishop H. J. Mikell officiating. Interment will be in West View.

Mr. Meldrim was a native of Savannah, and after a boyhood spent in Darien, moved to Atlanta in his early twenties. He later moved to Columbus, but returned to Atlanta five years ago, and resided at 1080 East Rock Spring road, N. E.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. C. J. McClannan, of Atlanta; three brothers, William D. Meldrim, of New Orleans; Dr. Charles H. Meldrim, of Savannah, and Dr. Harry L. Meldrim, of Glendale, Cal., and two grandchildren, Marion and Sara Williamson, of Atlanta. He was a cousin of Judge Peter Meldrim, of Savannah.

PARTY IS PLANNED FOR FORMER SLAVES

The 25th anniversary of the organization of the Ex-Slave Association will be held on Christmas eve, December 24, when a sermon will be preached by Rev. A. R. Cooper, pastor of the Cosmopolitan A. M. E. church, it was announced Sunday.

The association was formed by Atlanta's colored citizens for the purpose of seeing that none of the ex-slaves suffer for the necessities of life. Rev. J. A. Hadley, president of the association, said that Christmas presents will be given to all ex-slaves and aged colored persons who are without friends or relatives to help support them and who are unable to work and support themselves.

More than 100 ex-slaves attended the anniversary celebration last year. Those who attend this year will give their experiences of ante-bellum days. The association has the support of both races in Atlanta.

BOMB WRECKS HOME OF CUBAN OFFICIAL

HAVANA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A bomb explosion today wrecked the residence of Desiderio Ferreira, former secretary chief and member of the board of censorship. The front of the Ferreira residence was crushed in and furniture was broken, but neither Ferreira nor his wife, who had been awakened by an earlier bomb explosion, was injured. The earlier explosion damaged the home of the mother of Carmelo Urquiza, leader of the majority faction in the Cuban house of representatives.

BANKING GROUP CONVENES TODAY

Measure To Curb Chain Banking To Be Laid Before Senate Body.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Seeking a running start on the all-important economy program confronting the seventy-second congress meeting a week hence, the senate's special banking committee convenes tomorrow.

A comprehensive measure designed to prohibit the use of federal facilities in stock market speculation and to curb chain banking will be laid before the committee by its chairman, Senator Glass, democrat, of Virginia. The proposed legislation is an outgrowth of the gigantic stock market boom and subsequent collapse in 1929.

It was framed after lengthy hearings by the committee in an effort to put the federal banking system beyond the reach of speculative activities.

Senator Glass, who returned to the capital today, announced that he would suggest to the special committee the feasibility of getting to work immediately on the emergency economic program advanced by President Hoover in his bipartisan conferences this fall.

Congressional leaders, in formulating the program for the session, have given precedence to the domestic economic situation. Both republican and democratic spokesmen have joined in this.

As he put the finishing touches today on his message to congress, President Hoover also emphasized the same program. He declared, however, to urge prompt disposition of the one-year moratorium and this congressional chieftains are willing to agree. It must be approved by December 15 or foreign debts to this country will be in arrears.

Pending committee discussions which will be in executive session, Senator Glass is withholding his own views on the banking legislative problem. He has made it plain, however, that he will not sanction any extended loosening up of the federal reserve system in an effort to meet simply emergency questions.

BANKHEAD AND DILL JOIN MOVEMENT FOR FINANCE QUIZ

The holding company have placed the wealth of the land into a few powerful hands. And not only the farmer but the small investor and the businessman want something done about it. If congress does not act, the people themselves are going to act.

"The people can rule and they can rule with wisdom if given the proper tools and instruments. But they are helpless with interests more powerful than themselves working against them."

Senator Dill, although one of the younger members of the upper chamber, has always been a keen student of economic affairs, thinks clearly and holds steadfastly to certain fixed principles in government and business affairs. He is a democrat from a normally republican state but is inclined to be independent than a regular party man. Dill doesn't enter into many verbal battles on the floor, but when he does he fights with vigor and ruthlessness. He always knows what he wants and he

Spaghetti Most Missed By Grandi's Party

S. S. AUGUSTUS (At Sea), Nov. 29.—(AP)—Spaghetti was the item missed the most in the United States by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi's party, it was decided today.

On their first night ashore half of the delegation went to Italian restaurants, but the spaghetti was cooked too long to suit their tastes. At two private affairs their hosts provided the Italian staple but the foreign minister stuck to American food.

All members asked for spaghetti as soon as they came aboard Friday and have had it at every meal since—except Signor Grandi, who ate it for the first time this noon.

The foreign minister received more than a thousand letters and telegrams and 57 gifts of flowers and candy during his stay. Using four secretaries, he has worked day and night answering the missives by cablegrams averaging 25 words in length.

He fights until he gets it or until he has been hopelessly beaten by an opponent.

Sound Stand.
In discussing money, overcapitalization, profit-grabbing and holding company practices, Senator Dill said that the editorial stand taken by The Constitution in regard to these matters was unquestionably sound.

"The holding company promotion racket in this country is one of the most astounding monetary evils of modern times," he declared. "This is a strong way of putting it, but I believe I am speaking the truth."

"In the first place, holding companies are entirely unnecessary to carry on successful business. These companies were created for the sole purpose of making it impossible for individual states to regulate or for the federal government to supervise their operations. It is a hybrid business racket with no recognition or foundation in law."

"Take, for instance, the telephone business. You undertake to regulate a telephone company in your state and you find it is controlled by a holding company in another state. It has been estimated that only 15 per cent of telephone business is in state hands. Facing this situation, it is easily seen that there is no existing law to reach a holding company. They should be prohibited by law or control of their stock placed under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission, and a stock issue permitted only where the stock is based upon investment or actual money value."

"I have just returned from a short stay in New York city, where I was told by a large businessman that the larger business and utility corporations were actually paralyzed by the lack of money or business from which to secure money. The rich are poorer than the poor. Stock promotion has emptied the money vaults of the people."

"Your editor has put his finger on the sore spot of the present business stagnation."

"Like the ancient Cretan labyrinth, there is no visible beginning or end to the operations of the holding company. They have been organized to pay commissions on all sorts of promotion work. I do not believe you can successfully control them—they must be outlawed."

"There is considerable feeling on the hill that an investigation or inquiry by the senate banking and currency committee is necessary or essential before congress can intelligently legislate regarding this condition. We have all the facts necessary. The recent investigation of power companies by the federal trade commission gave us a wealth of information about stock promotion and utility consolidations. What we need now is action more than investigation."

REV. RICHARD PIGUE PASSES IN KENTUCKY

Methodist Minister Succumbs to Heart Trouble After Long Illness.

MURRAY, Ky., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Rev. Richard H. Pigue, 74, superannuated minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and a member of the Memphis conference for 47 years, died at his home near here at 1 p. m. after a long illness of heart trouble.

Rev. Pigue was superannuated last fall, and failed two weeks ago for the first time to answer roll call at the annual conference. Born near Russellville, Ky., he held pastorates in west Kentucky and Tennessee. He was pastor of the Murray Methodist church in 1895 and 1896.

He is survived by eight sons, six of which are newspapermen. They are Will, Pittsburgh; Muncie, Pittsburg; Robert, Memphis; Richard, Nashville; Paul, Houston, Texas; Syd, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Marvin, New Orleans, and Whitten, St. Louis, Mo.

Other survivors include his second wife, formerly Mrs. Nellie Swann, of Fulton, Ky. His first wife died in 1922. Funeral services are planned for tomorrow at his home, Pilgrim Rest, nine miles west of Murray.

JOHN H. CARROLL.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(UP)—John Haydock Carroll, distinguished railroad lawyer, who literally rose from "rags to riches," died at his home here today.

Carroll, who was 73 years old, had been ill since returning to Washington from his summer home at Northport Point, Mich., last July. Private funeral services will be held at his home tomorrow with interment in Rock Creek cemetery.

At the time of his death Carroll was general counsel for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Northern Pacific railroads, and assistant to the president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. He had served as personal legal adviser to the late James J. Hill, famous railroad builder of the north-west.

REV. M. G. SCHULMANN.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Right Rev. Monsignor George Schulmann, 66, vicar general of the Catholic diocese of Louisville and domestic prelate of the pope's household, died today at Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., after a long illness.

GABRIEL GUITHAU.
PARIS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Gabriel Guithau, a former cabinet member under Raymond Poincare and Aristide Briand, died Friday, it was revealed today.

Starting in 1912, he was successively minister of public instruction, minister of commerce and minister of marine, the latter in 1921-1922. He was an important figure at the time of the Washington arms conference in 1921.

WILLIAM HARDENBROOK.
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—William Ten Eyck Hardenbrook, 79, a former editor of the Houston (Texas) Post and one-time staff member of the Boston (Mass.) Globe, died here of heart disease on Saturday.

He was reputed to have been the oldest Shriner and sole survivor of the 50 men who founded Mecca temple, New York.

Cross Sections of Life In Gate City of South

R. B. Pegram, vice president of the Southern Railway, will be back in his offices here today after a six-week visit to Cuba, Panama, New Orleans and Washington on a vacation trip.

Two more pay telephone station robberies Sunday were added to a list of approximately 50 carried out in the last three months, when police were notified that burglars had broken into a Woco-Pep filling station at 400 Edgewood avenue and a Standard Oil filling station at Forrest avenue and Boulevard, and had taken the telephones there.

Henry Ford, intimate friend of the late Thomas A. Edison, will send one of his secretaries to Atlanta next month to interview Winfield Chase Parkins, of 1837 Flagler avenue, concerning his ownership of one of Edison's early phonograph models. The model was a present from Edison in 1878, when it was patented. It is understood that Ford wishes to purchase it.

St. Luke's Episcopal church choir Sunday night presented "Seedtime and Harvest," a cantata by John E. West, in observance of the spirit of Thanksgiving. The cantata was a service in praise divided into three parts, with a prologue and epilogue.

Lewis P. Skidmore, director of the High Museum of Art, will speak Sunday afternoon on three paintings by Henry O. Tanner, which are now on exhibition at the museum. The pictures were bought in Paris recently by J. J. Haverty, president of the Atlanta Art Association.

Nineteenth annual meeting of the board of directors of the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau will be held at the Ansley hotel at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, according to an announcement by F. J. Paxson, president of the bureau. Reorganization plans will be discussed.

Atlanta Citizens will welcome the wives of new members of the club at a social affair to be given at the Margaret Bryan Dancing school at 8 o'clock tonight. The school is located at Peachtree and Third streets.

Union sunrise service on Christmas Day, an annual event here for the last 25 years, will be held at 8 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, according to Dr. L. R. Christie, president of the Christian Council, which provides the service through its Commission on Young People's Work.

Family Day was observed at Capitol View Baptist church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. At the night service, "The Southern Baptistists Are Doing," was presented at the church by the W. M. S.

Thousands of Baptist Lay Leaders Begin $40,000,000 Drive in South

Thousands of lay leaders of the 25,000 churches in the Southern Baptist convention Sunday began an intensive eight-day house-to-house canvass of members to raise $40,000,000 for church work during the coming year.

No figures were available Sunday night from any of the 18 states affiliated with the convention, but workers reported they were meeting with success in their canvasses. Leaders predicted the "every-member canvass" would reach its goal.

Some churches already had conducted their campaigns, many had obtained more than their quota, but for the most laymen, working under plans drawn by the various associations and directed by state officers, conducted a personal drive among members.

The Rev. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, Sunday night announced that workers of his church had raised $23,000 from 1,300 members. The quota of Dr. Newton's church is $71,000, to be raised from the 2,700 members.

The Rev. L. R. Christie, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, reported that his church has obtained better results than in last year's campaign, and that the church is in sight of its quota of $35,000.

The Rev. W. H. Faust, pastor of the Gordon Street Baptist church, said that the quota of his church had been obtained.

Several other Atlanta churches reported Sunday night that satisfactory progress had been made.

Reports from the approximately 2,500 Baptist churches in Georgia will be made to James W. Merritt, secretary. Georgia's quota of the amount to be sent by churches to the missions-education-hospital fund is $600,000.

P. W. James, director of the Nashville (Tennessee) Association, said a preliminary check indicated Tennessee would raise more than its quota.

J. W. Katz, Louisiana promotional secretary, reported from Shreveport that 60,000 pledge cards had been called for by Louisiana members, 33 per cent more than last year.

Dr. C. A. Jones, of Columbia, said every one of the 38 associations in South Carolina had been organized and there was reason to be "optimistic as to the results."

Dr. Fred Brown, promotional director for the canvass, said in Knoxville, Tenn., that no movement in the history of the denomination had met with such unanimous support of all members. He said the spirit shown by the church members was "all the greater because of the economic situation all over the land. I am confident that our goal is going to be reached."

State secretaries reported no definite figures on the drive would be available for at least two days.

The $40,000,000 every member participating campaign was authorized at the annual convention last May in Birmingham after J. H. Anderson, Knoxville (Tenn.) financier and church worker, reported he had found a large number of members did not contribute to the church's program.

The churches will retain approximately one-third of the budgeted $80,000,000 will go to other church work, including missions, hospitals and educational institutions.

Dr. John Brandon Peters, new pastor of the Druid Hills Methodist church, and Dr. R. L. Russell, new president of the Atlanta district, were guests of honor at a welcome reception held at the church between 3 and 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Dr. Peters spoke to his new charge for the first time Sunday morning.

Misses Kathryn Eberhart and Ann Browning will be hostesses to the Y. W. A. of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock tonight at 1230 Piedmont avenue.

Brigadier General William S. McNair, commander fourth coast district of the United States artillery, reviewed the Georgia Military Academy cadets at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the occasion of the cadets' first official parade of the school year.

Tom Thumb wedding, in which 50 children of the Druid Hills kindergarten will take part, will feature a recital by pupils of Mrs. Lynwood Jester's School of Expression, and music by pupils of the Griffin School of Music, to be given December 4. The performance is to be for the benefit of kindergarten equipment.

Major General Frank R. McCoy, accompanied by Lieutenant William S. Biddle, his aide, will leave Atlanta today for Birmingham and New Orleans. At the first city he will attend the annual meeting of the Army Ordnance Association while at New Orleans he will address the national convention of the national guard.

Patrolman W. T. Morris, charged with the murder of Lieutenant J. W. Barfield, a superior officer, is slated to go on trial Tuesday before Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court.

Fulton county commission will meet at the courthouse this afternoon to fix 1932 salaries of former fee officers. Budgets for the former fee departments will be fixed at a later day in the month, it was said.

Harvest musical festival program, under the direction of Dr. Ben J. Potter, was given at Trinity church Sunday night. The program took the place of the usual preaching service, and consisted entirely of music.

Judge J. H. Hawkins, of the Blue Ridge circuit, today will open his last session of superior court in Milton county before that county merges January 1 with Fulton. Judge Hawkins will hold court up to Tuesday night, in order to clean up his docket of criminal cases, it was said. The last regular term was held some time ago, and Judge Hawkins is holding a special session in order that Milton may enter Fulton with the docket clear.

GIFFORD SAYS STATES CAN CARE FOR NEEDY

Relief Funds 50 Per Cent Greater Than Last Year, Committee Head States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Confidence that every community of the nation will be prepared to assuage suffering among the jobless during the coming cold months was expressed today by the president's emergency relief committee.

Walter S. Gifford, director of the committee, in a letter to President Hoover made public at the White House, reported there now was "every indication that each state will take care of its own this winter."

Although no final figure was available as to the total sum that will result from local drives for jobs funds throughout the country, Gifford said results of the campaigns thus far completed had been gratifying. His committee lent general aid to all the drives.

"The funds especially earmarked for unemployment relief are some 50 per cent greater than last year," he said, "evidence that the people of the country are keenly aware of the need and are determined to meet it."

President Hoover has given more than a little of his time lately to a consideration of unemployment needs and methods of meeting them. Gifford has conferred with him twice during the past week, especially upon the sections of the chief executive's annual message to congress that will deal with the subject.

Despite the Sabbath holiday, Mr. Hoover spent some time today upon his forthcoming messages. After attending as usual the Friends' church services, he retired to the Lincoln study to work before luncheon. No guests were invited to the executive mansion for the weekend and he was able to return to his study again in the afternoon.

Gifford's letter to the chief executive reported that more than 2,000 local, county and state committees already were at work in the effort to reach "every important point of unemployment." He expressed confidence that there would be "united forces" to meet the situation.

"I can report," he said, "that in practically all communities requiring organized effort to meet unemployment this winter, such organization is either completed and functioning or is expected to be in the near future."

"As a result, plans are completed in nearly all states and in preparation in other to the end that all communities with, in some instances, assistance from the county or state, may meet this winter's expected relief burden."

EXPENDITURES FOR RELIEF SHOW HEAVY INCREASE
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Relief expenditures exceeding by from 5 to 82 per cent the amounts spent two years ago were reported today in 53 large cities from a survey made by the Russell Sage Foundation.

The survey compared relief expenditures in 1929 with those of 1931, the first half of each year only being compared.

It found that Wilmington, Del., with an expenditure this year $32 per cent greater than two years ago, headed the list, while Denver, Colo., with an expenditure of 5 per cent above 1929, was at the bottom. The average city was Cincinnati, which increased its expenditure 231 per cent.

For the first six months of this year New York spent for relief $21,000,000, an increase of 375 per cent over the same period in 1929: Detroit, $8,500,000, an increase of 613 per cent; Chicago, $5,500,000, an increase of 319 per cent; Los Angeles and Philadelphia more than $4,000,000, an increase of 366 and 532 per cent, and Boston over $3,900,000, an increase of 151 per cent.

During September, usually a slack month for relief, $10,822,000 was spent in 81 cities reporting to the foundation. Of this amount, 77 per cent came from government agencies.

Chilean Speeds by Air for Duel Engagement

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 29.—(AP)—General Pedro Martinez, Peruvian army officer, left Santiago in an airplane today for Lima for the purpose, he said, of fighting a duel with Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, president-elect of Peru.

General Pedro Pablo Martinez was charged with having led an unsuccessful uprising at Callao last February against the administration of Sanchez Cerro, who then was provisional president of Peru. He was taken prisoner with 21 other army officers, but was released shortly afterward by the new government of Dr. Ricardo Leoncio Elias, which deposed Sanchez Cerro and was in turn overthrown.

Community Theater To Hold Rehearsal And 'Critics' Night'

A full rehearsal of "Coquette," which will be produced December 1 and 2 at the Atlanta Woman's Club, will be held tonight at the workroom of the Community theater in preparation for a "Critics' Night" performance Tuesday night.

The audience at the Tuesday night rehearsal at the Young Men's Christian Association auditorium will consist only of the play-casting committee, composed of A. Ten Eyck Brown, president of the Community theater; Miss Natalie Hammond and Mrs. Janet Mills Shepherd, director.

Other nights of this week will be utilized in special rehearsals of individual scenes or parts. Tuesday night the committee will watch carefully every scene of the play to note possible improvements and changes, which will be discussed at the end of the production. This method will help insure a perfect performance, and will tend to eliminate all unfinished or rough features, it is believed. The plan is said to work well in large professional organizations, and Mrs. Shepherd hopes for similar results with her amateur players.

Rehearsals already show the influence of careful work and intensive practice, it was said. Properties for the show are to be handled by Mrs. Ed Clements. Wardrobes are under the direction of Mrs. Walter Chinn and Mrs. Arthur Stokes.

GROUP TO PRESENT PLAY OVER RADIO
"The Twelve-Pound Look," by James Barrie, a delightful comedy of modern English life and a clever satire on the mental attitude of a businessman whose absorption in his business causes him to forget that his wife is a human being, will be presented at 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon over WSB by the Community Theater of the Air.

Kitty Maughan, an Englishwoman by birth, will play "Lady Sims," while Marion Camp is cast as the husband, "Sir Harry Sims," and Elizabeth Pinkston takes the role of "Kate." The play is directed by Mrs. Janet Mills Shepherd, director of the Community theater, and Norman Dickens, of the WSB staff.

over the same period in 1929: Detroit, $8,500,000, an increase of 613 per cent; Chicago, $5,500,000, an increase of 319 per cent; Los Angeles and Philadelphia more than $4,000,000, an increase of 366 and 532 per cent, and Boston over $3,900,000, an increase of 151 per cent.

TARIFF CHANGE PLANS INTIMATED BY RAINEY

Prospective Floor Leader Declares Rates Must Be Lowered.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A strong indication of democratic plans to readjust the tariff in the coming congress was conveyed in a statement today by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, through the party's national committee.

Rainey, prospective house democratic floor leader said "the time has come for constructive tariff action and something must be done to bring down world tariff walls."

He has been for years an important member of the ways and means committee that drafts revenue raising and tariff legislation. He advocated a reciprocal tariff to be initiated by the United States as a means of lowering tariffs throughout the world.

"International trade can no longer jump the even higher tariff hurdles of the world," Rainey declared.

"The approaching session of congress presents more important problems for solution than have been presented to any other congress since the World War," he continued. "It is not difficult to point out now the issue which will be of the first importance."

"Since the republicans came into control of the congress and the executive, following the Wilson administration, there have been two unconscionable revisions of the tariff upward."

"The effect of these upward revisions is just being felt in this country and the world. International trade is slowing up. It slowed up last year $5,000,000,000. It will slow up this year in all probability more than that."

"Our tariff must be substantially lowered, but lower rates can only be put into effect with any measure of safety to our industries by resorting to reciprocal duties." He urged passage of a bill to put low rates into effect toward countries that placed their tariffs on the same basis.

FLIGHT ACROSS OCEAN AND RETURN PLANNED

DUBLIN, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Captain J. P. Saul, who was navigator on the trans-Atlantic flight of the Southern Cross, is planning a seven-day flight to New York and return.

Captain Saul and an English aviator whose name was not disclosed, plan to leave from Portmarnock, he said. They will refuel in Newfoundland if necessary, and continue on to New York. After one night in America they will start back over the same route.

Mail will be carried both ways. The date of the flight has not been set.

The Southern Cross flight from Ireland to America was a climax in Captain Charles E. Kingsford-Smith's aviation career. The flight was made a year ago last June.

CANADIAN PACIFIC REVENUES DECLINE

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company today reported gross earnings of $13,501,048 for October. A reduction of $3,772,132 from October, 1930. In the month expenses were cut from $10,658,974 to $8,848,925, a drop of $1,810,049, leaving net earnings for the month of $4,652,123, a reduction of $1,993,782 from October of last year, when net totaled $6,645,905.

ATLANTA, GA., NOV. 30, 1931.

A CIVIC SHAME.

Conditions at the city jail on Decatur street, described in an article in Sunday's Constitution, are a menace to health and reflect on the good name of Atlanta.

Prisoners brought to it are crowded into cells and "holes," which abound with filth. Dark, wet and reeking from unsanitary conditions, their walls are crumbling and such windows as exist are in a condition to furnish little protection against cold and rain.

In such surroundings are detained not only the known criminal and those arrested on definite charges, but also those held on "suspicion," many of whom are later found not to have been involved in law-breaking. Here, too, must stay the material witnesses, guilty of no crimes themselves, but who are necessary in establishing the guilt of others.

Not only are the physical conditions at the jail intolerable, but its capacity is so taxed that the guilty and the innocent alike are packed in until they have to use one another's shoulders for pillows.

In the federal prison, the convict camps and the city stockade proper accommodations are furnished for the physical well-being of those convicted of crime, but those herded in the city jail must serve their "hitch in hell" while awaiting trial.

As unjust as such treatment is to those actually guilty of crime, it is an outrage upon a citizen who is found to be guiltless.

Chief Beavers, his officers, the mayor, members of council and civic and business leaders expressed themselves on the inexcusable condition of the city's prison in the news story published by The Constitution Sunday. The pictures accompanying this story show conditions which are enough to make every humane resident of Atlanta hang his head in shame.

In general council and before the mayor there is at present a proposition looking to the erection of a new police headquarters and jail. Whether or not this proposal is the best way to go about securing new quarters for the housing of those arrested by the city's guardians of the law, something should be done, and without delay, to provide a decent place for those who are sent to the city jail.

REPUBLICAN DIVISION.

The complete harmony existing in democratic ranks and the extent to which the republican party is divided becomes more apparent every day.

Not only has the democratic party rid itself of the malady which has been so often responsible for its defeat, but it has passed it on to the opposition.

Political observers, according to Gladstone Williams, The Constitution's Washington correspondent, are particularly impressed with the significance of the steady growth in Roosevelt strength, which is gradually eliminating other proposed candidates without leaving scars which would endanger the chances of democratic success.

Further verification of democratic harmony is to be found in the prediction of Cecil B. Dickson, political commentator of the Associated Press, that the New York city democrats, while naturally preferring a northern man for speaker, will throw their full strength to Representative Garner, of Texas.

Sharply contrasting the constantly recurring evidences of democratic determination to pull together in the entire scope of party activities, comes the report, reversing the usual order of things, that the republican front is so badly broken by internal schisms as to make the rebuilding of the party into an almost impossible task.

While the democrats seem steadily and without friction progressing towards the naming of Franklin Roosevelt as their standard bearer, the intense antagonism to President Hoover within the ranks of republican leaders is causing some leaders of the party to speak their minds in public in a manner conducive only to the good of the democrats.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Comparing Air Forces.

A comparison between the air forces of the leading nations is made the excuse by a Japanese writer for the advocacy of a great air preparation in Japan. Japan is such in the strength of air forces, this man says. France has 4,500 military planes; the United States 2,500; soviet Russia 1,400; and Japan only 600, to which must be added 400 belonging to the navy.

"Since the appearance of the airplane in warfare, the definition of the fighting front has been fundamentally changed," urges the Japanese writer. "Before the participation of airplanes in war, belligerents were able to remain in peace at home without even a enemy if they lived far enough from the firing line, but the airplane has brought about an unlimited extension of the fighting front."

"The next war," he goes on to say, "one may expect enemy planes to attempt the wholesale destruction of towns by powerful poison gases. The fear of this will undoubtedly give rise to defeatism among the whole nation." Not only to defeatism. It gives rise to millions and millions of men, happily also many Japanese, saying: "This shame shall not come to pass."

ON CONSTITUTION'S PLATFORM.

Widespread approval is being given to the "seven-point platform of systematic spending and saving," recently announced by the American Economists Committee for Women's Activities of New York, to enable the women of the country to do their share toward bringing about business recovery and normal employment.

Prompted largely by the Ladies Home Journal's "It's Up to the Women" platform, the details of the proposed program coincide to a remarkable degree with the position taken in the full page statement by the editor of The Constitution, published in its issue of October 19.

That statement designated confidence as the best solution of our economic troubles and pointed out that systematic buying is the best way in which our faith in the inherent prosperity of the country can be manifested.

The folly of hoarding at a time when busy dollars would be the best panacea for lagging business, and bring greater returns than for many years past, was emphasized in the statement, which went on to say:

It takes no secret to reach the conclusion that this is the time to supply our necessities, whether they be clothes, food, household equipment or homes of our own. Wise buying is the only way to avoid the pitfalls which caused the last collapse.

Likewise the platform adopted by the group of nationally-known economists for the reviving of business calls for normal living and the spending of every dollar possible at this time.

Purchases, reads the platform, "will keep retail stocks moving, factories running, your neighbor at work, money in circulation, credit active. Hoarded money dries up credit—and it gives no one a job."

The seven points, including the "satisfying of wants of every character at present prices," the buying, building or modernizing of homes; the adoption of a spirit of optimistic confidence, and the keeping of money safe in its full value by judicious spending instead of hoarding.

The effects of the depression have been felt less in Atlanta largely because our people have been wise enough not to curtail their buying to an unreasonable extent.

All the more reason, therefore, that we should now take advantage of the bargain offers made possible by our merchants.

There is no excuse for lowered standards of living, brought about by the foolish hoarding of our dollars, when both necessities and comforts can be bought at prices less than the cost of their materials a few years ago.

Every family has some long-stifed desire, whether it be a new home, a better automobile or better clothing. The only sensible thing to do with our hidden dollars is to make use of them in taking advantage of the opportunity of satisfying those desires at prices now within our reach and thus do our share toward revitalizing the life stream of business.

Could it be said that the fist fighting which broke up that disarmament mass meeting in Paris is typical of the French idea of how to secure peace?

Even at that, the $20,000 a year alimony scorned by Mrs. John Wamaker Jr. as "totally inadequate" should at least keep the wolf away from the door.

At any rate, a Hoover-Dawes team would be more peppy, to say the least of it, than has been the Hoover-Curtis combination.

If you haven't already counted the days until Christmas, a look at the calendar is in order.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN.

Paris, France.

Do you regard New York City as a representative of the United States? There are many ways in which New York City is so typically American that it is a perfect picture of the United States for the rest of the nation. Its boundless energy, grasp on material things, desire for growth, confidence in the future and constant changes are characteristic of the major cities of the country at large. Beautiful buildings side by side with monuments of bad taste exist here, as they do in nearly every city in the United States. The same magnificent but unfinished aspects are found in all our chief centers of industry and business.

But if you want a less mixed population you will have to go westward beyond the Ohio valley or southward beyond Mason and Dixon's line. There are no mixed populations here. The tongue and kindred goes cheek by jowl on the sidewalks of New York. Nor is this without its benefits. A broad, friendly, unpretentious, and friendly with alien peoples, a consciousness that there were great gains as well as decided drawbacks in this melting pot of the world's peoples is the result. This is the gateway to the new world.

This is precisely New York's strategic position. One is necessarily told by visitors from abroad that New York is cosmopolitan, international, anything but American. Yet Mr. J. A. Spender, a first-class British writer, declares that nothing could be less true of New York's collective life and character. It plunges its inhabitants into the life of our traditions and customs as a republic. They are in it up to the neck from the moment they arrive. A silent but resolute conformity with the country's hopes and aspirations is always at work in New York.

European Wireless.

I am not at all in agreement with Armstrong Perry, of the American office of education, who is touring Europe to study broadcasting programs and who finds that the European programs are much better than American. It is true I don't know much about American programs.

When I was in the United States last, radio was only in its infancy. But it simply can't be any worse than the programs offered by the French governmental station operating from the Eiffel Tower. Each day we have endless discussions over the ether about all sorts of uninteresting and silly subjects. The music sent out is not fit for a bowl of backwoods savages. The Dutch do much better and England is first-class.

Rome and Naples also send out good broadcasts, but France is decidedly at the bottom of the list. It's seldom worth listening to. (Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

Conference Delegate Sees Universal Support For Acreage Reduction

Editor Constitution: Your editorial, "The Governor Right," is on the right line and is in keeping with the cotton conference that was held Monday at Jackson.

I was one of the delegates from Georgia and I have never seen such a spirit of co-operation among such a large group of men. I heard about two men speak against the Texas acreage reduction law. It was said by Governor Blackwood that the conference was the most co-operative meeting ever held by the cotton planters of the south. Every cotton-growing state seemed to be united in the uniform reduction in cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 on a fair basis for each state. The Texas acreage law will cut the acreage in Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma fully 50 per cent, while in Georgia under the same law it will cut the cotton acreage but 8 per cent to 10 per cent from what we have planted this year.

This difference in acreage reduction Georgia having already cut down her cotton acreage. The plan looks fair to me and I am frank to say that I cannot see how anyone can oppose it. The conference is being held in Georgia. It looks to me that Georgia has all to gain and nothing to lose.

JAPAN WITHDRAWS TOWARD MUKDEN

Friday made public portions of an exchange of notes between the two nations. Japan had disclaimed any intention of attacking Chinchow, and view of the Japanese was that it was difficult for him to understand press reports that the Japanese were advancing toward Chinchow. Other statements misquoting Japan as coming from him.

Colonel Stimson's categorical denial that he made the statements erroneously attributed to him and a cable of explanation from Ambassador DeBach at Washington were received with great satisfaction.

The foreign office spokesman explained that the ire of Japanese officials had been aroused by their assumption that the purported sentiments might have served to stiffen the stand of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang at Chinchow. The Japanese government agreed today to withdraw the troops in the vicinity of Chinchow, south of the Great Wall.

The main danger point appears to be at Tientsin, but officials considered that serious developments in northern China are not likely to occur. The Japanese reinforcements are expected to have a quieting effect.

JAPAN WITHDRAWS TOWARD MUKDEN

Friday made public portions of an exchange of notes between the two nations. Japan had disclaimed any intention of attacking Chinchow, and view of the Japanese was that it was difficult for him to understand press reports that the Japanese were advancing toward Chinchow. Other statements misquoting Japan as coming from him.

Colonel Stimson's categorical denial that he made the statements erroneously attributed to him and a cable of explanation from Ambassador DeBach at Washington were received with great satisfaction.

The foreign office spokesman explained that the ire of Japanese officials had been aroused by their assumption that the purported sentiments might have served to stiffen the stand of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang at Chinchow. The Japanese government agreed today to withdraw the troops in the vicinity of Chinchow, south of the Great Wall.

The main danger point appears to be at Tientsin, but officials considered that serious developments in northern China are not likely to occur. The Japanese reinforcements are expected to have a quieting effect.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Do you regard New York City as a representative of the United States? There are many ways in which New York City is so typically American that it is a perfect picture of the United States for the rest of the nation. Its boundless energy, grasp on material things, desire for growth, confidence in the future and constant changes are characteristic of the major cities of the country at large. Beautiful buildings side by side with monuments of bad taste exist here, as they do in nearly every city in the United States. The same magnificent but unfinished aspects are found in all our chief centers of industry and business.

But if you want a less mixed population you will have to go westward beyond the Ohio valley or southward beyond Mason and Dixon's line. There are no mixed populations here. The tongue and kindred goes cheek by jowl on the sidewalks of New York. Nor is this without its benefits. A broad, friendly, unpretentious, and friendly with alien peoples, a consciousness that there were great gains as well as decided drawbacks in this melting pot of the world's peoples is the result. This is the gateway to the new world.

This is precisely New York's strategic position. One is necessarily told by visitors from abroad that New York is cosmopolitan, international, anything but American. Yet Mr. J. A. Spender, a first-class British writer, declares that nothing could be less true of New York's collective life and character. It plunges its inhabitants into the life of our traditions and customs as a republic. They are in it up to the neck from the moment they arrive. A silent but resolute conformity with the country's hopes and aspirations is always at work in New York.

I am not at all in agreement with Armstrong Perry, of the American office of education, who is touring Europe to study broadcasting programs and who finds that the European programs are much better than American. It is true I don't know much about American programs.

When I was in the United States last, radio was only in its infancy. But it simply can't be any worse than the programs offered by the French governmental station operating from the Eiffel Tower. Each day we have endless discussions over the ether about all sorts of uninteresting and silly subjects. The music sent out is not fit for a bowl of backwoods savages. The Dutch do much better and England is first-class.

Rome and Naples also send out good broadcasts, but France is decidedly at the bottom of the list. It's seldom worth listening to. (Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

Conference Delegate Sees Universal Support For Acreage Reduction

Editor Constitution: Your editorial, "The Governor Right," is on the right line and is in keeping with the cotton conference that was held Monday at Jackson.

I was one of the delegates from Georgia and I have never seen such a spirit of co-operation among such a large group of men. I heard about two men speak against the Texas acreage reduction law. It was said by Governor Blackwood that the conference was the most co-operative meeting ever held by the cotton planters of the south. Every cotton-growing state seemed to be united in the uniform reduction in cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 on a fair basis for each state. The Texas acreage law will cut the acreage in Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma fully 50 per cent, while in Georgia under the same law it will cut the cotton acreage but 8 per cent to 10 per cent from what we have planted this year.

This difference in acreage reduction Georgia having already cut down her cotton acreage. The plan looks fair to me and I am frank to say that I cannot see how anyone can oppose it. The conference is being held in Georgia. It looks to me that Georgia has all to gain and nothing to lose.

Crisp Seen as Chief Obstacle To Rainey Floor Leadership

Choice of Illinoisan Would Commit Democrats to Progressive Side, Sullivan Believes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The selection of the democratic leader of the house, although it will not be formally made for some days, may be regarded as practically settled. The choice almost certainly will be Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois. With several other aspirants having formally retired from the race, there remains only one actual candidate against Mr. Rainey, and one potential one. The active opponent of Rainey is John J. O'Connor, of the Tammany delegation, from New York city. As the situation here today, O'Connor hardly can hope to get much support outside his own New York group, although some of his friends insist that when the democratic caucus meets they will make out a convincing case for him.

The potential opponent of Rainey is Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia. Crisp is a representative of the highest stature in ability and experience and in the regard of his fellows. Every member of his party would be glad to see Crisp made the floor leader and every republican would be glad to see him honored. The principal consideration that may deter Crisp from entering the race is the fact that the south already has the speakership and the consequent feeling that the second highest office, floor leader, should go to the north. This sectional argument is not very valid and it works in some cases to prevent the party from putting the very best men in some of the offices.

If it is admitted that the floor leadership should go to the north, the choice of Rainey is made obvious by his ability and experience, with the sectional argument admitted, even though regretfully, most of the south will gladly vote for Rainey and he will have the votes of most of the north as well.

From the broadest public point of view, the principal curiosity about the choice of floor leader is whether it takes the party along the conservative or the progressive course. Whether the party as a whole is to be conservative or progressive is the thing that is just now crystallizing. Rainey is definitely not conservative. He is, indeed, to a striking degree the democratic equivalent of the western progressive republican. Rainey is a kind of democratic La Follette. Although a graduate of Amherst and of a law school, and although in his early years he practiced law, he now follows farming as his only occupation and in congress distinctly and aggressively represents the views of the mid-west farmer, much as Norris of Nebraska, does among the republicans.

Some of the more conservative democrats, while conceding Rainey's obvious ability and experience, and conceding he is the best equipped and most logical man from the north, are nevertheless a little disturbed by the definiteness of the flavor of progressivism which will be given to the party as a whole by having Rainey as floor leader. The floor leader is officially and conspicuously the spokesman of the party who in person leads its debates and battles on the floor. The floor leader will be more prominent than the speaker who merely sits on the rostrum and hands down parliamentary decisions. Rainey's progressivism of conviction is accompanied by a forthrightness and frankness of temperament which sometimes becomes explosive and expresses itself in strong words. Occasionally he takes an extreme position on a narrow point, and thus stands out from his own party. He opposed Eugene Meyer for governor of the federal reserve system, although in the formal vote on confirmation 30 democrats favored Meyer and only 8 opposed.

The choice of Rainey for floor leader will pretty well commit the democrats to the progressive course. Rainey is very able, has an attractive personality, and has had 26 years' experience in congress, during all of which he has been a forceful and active figure. Only two democrats exceed him in length of service, Pou of North Carolina, with 28 years, and Garner, of Texas, with 30. Rainey's Illinois district, bordering on the Mississippi river, near the middle of the state, and composed of 10 preponderantly rural counties, has kept him in congress longer than any other democrat who ever came from that state, and longer than any other republican except Joseph G. Cannon.

COOPER, COLBERT IN GEORGIA FILM
"His Woman" feature screen attraction at Keith's Georgia theater this week, is a story about a baby, with "his woman" and "he" himself being only incidental to the story. "He" is Gary Cooper, and "his woman" is Claudette Colbert. Both are cinema performers of unexcelled personality and abundant talent. But neither can be said to be found here in his or her best vehicle, even though the production is one of highly enjoyable qualities for the audience.

It's the chubby, bouncing baby boy that "rides all alone and rides all unarm'd," except for its natural cherubic smiles, its cooing and most timely wails, in this vehicle. The baby, founding left on the gangplank of a freight steamship, survives a half-hearted, profane, learned captain into a fondling foster-father. It causes the captain to seek

HUNGER MARCHERS RIOT IN HAMMOND

Demonstrators Dispersed By Indiana City Police Using Tear Gas.

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Rioting marked the entry into Hammond today of the mid-western delegation of the "national hunger army." The crowd of 250 men and women, recruited from Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, was routed with tear-gas after attempting to hold a demonstration on the courthouse lawn in defiance of a police order.

The delegation, en route to Washington by automobile to protest economic conditions to President Hoover, was met by a detail of 35 policemen and warned against holding a demonstration here. The procession halted, however, and speakers began to address a crowd that gathered. Some one tossed a brick into the massed police and a general melee began. A number of Hammond townspeople joined in, some siding with the marchers and others with the police.

The tear gas took effect on police as well as rioters, and in the confusion most of the "army" climbed back into vehicles and sped out of town. The officers overtook the demonstrators, separated them into four divisions and started each column over a different road. One division later reached Gary, Ind., where it held a demonstration in Communists' hall and then departed for Kalamazoo, Mich. Another file was reported several miles south of Hammond on the Lincoln highway, while the other groups had not been heard from several hours later.

No arrests were made during the demonstration here, but police seized a quantity of communistic literature that was being distributed. A number of banners also were confiscated. 'HUNGER MARCHERS' WARNED TO PASS PHILLY BY MAYOR PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—"Pass by Philadelphia," Mayor Harry A. Mackey's advice to "hunger marchers" en route to Washington to hold a demonstration. The advice was given in reply to a letter from the "hunger front" hunger march committee here which demanded food and lodging for 475 persons on December 4.

There will be no housing or feeding of such a group in Philadelphia by the city, Mayor Mackey wrote in reply. "If such a march takes place I would suggest that you pass by Philadelphia." "We are now busily engaged in feeding and maintaining our own unemployed and unfortunate people and I will not aid, abet or in any way sustain a movement which means marching to the national capital to embarrass the president or those responsible for our laws."

Despite the mayor's stand Michael Burd, secretary of the hunger march committee, announced plans to hold a "workers' mass meeting" here December 4. Forty members of the "National Hunger Army" left here this morning in a truck and two touring cars for Washington, D. C. Nearly 100 persons were on hand to give the party a send-off. There was no demonstration, the departure instead being marked by near-comedy.

The truck proved balky at the start and several volunteers failed to crank it. Then it was discovered the machine was out of gasoline. A hat was passed among the spectators, and sufficient funds obtained to buy fuel. However, even after being fueled, the truck refused to budge and it was necessary for the riders to push the vehicle until it could be thrown into gear.

A "decent woman" to nurse the child in a port where men are men and women are well. It's difficult, but by chance he finds "the daughter of a missionary who is seeking passage home after the death of her missionary father." The baby makes a lot of other changes in the boat's routine, but performs its prime act in the plot when it patches the love between the captain and his baby's caretaker, nearly blasted by discovery that the girl is no "missionary's daughter," but just another sailor's delight trying to reform.

Byrd's Radio Expert Speaks Here Tonight

Lieutenant Malcolm P. Hanson, chief radio engineer for Admiral Richard E. Byrd's antarctic expedition, will be the guest speaker for the Atlanta section of the Institute of Radio Engineers at a special meeting to be held at 8 o'clock tonight on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel.

Lieutenant Hanson spent two years in Little America with the expedition and it was chiefly through his efforts that the explorers were enabled to keep in touch with the United States by radio. Members of the institute and their families are invited to attend the lecture, which will follow a short meeting of the organization at a dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 6:30 o'clock.

DIVERS SEEKING BASE TO SALVAGE LUSITANIA

BY H. J. J. SARGENT.
(Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
LONDON, Nov. 29.—Preparations are being rushed for the establishment of the base of operations for the Lake-Railay expedition, whose project to send divers down to the torpedoed Lusitania has been sanctioned by the British authorities. The Lusitania lies 240 feet down, off the Irish coast.

The Irish Free State has granted consent for the establishment of the base. The small town of Kinsale, on Kinsale harbor, is the location preferred by the expedition, but if the housing and other shore facilities there prove inadequate, the base will be at Cobi. Captain H. H. Railay, who, with Simon Lake, is in charge of the salvage undertaking, will go to Ireland before the final decision is made.

Study of the admiralty charts shows sufficient depth of water and good anchorage facilities in Kinsale harbor, which is approximately 15 miles from the spot where the Lusitania is believed to be lying. Cobi is 14 miles from Kinsale. It is essential that the base be as close as possible to the scene of diving operations, which will be in an area frequently swept by southwest gales and at all times disturbed by the Atlantic swell. The expedition must return daily to its base, and therefore wishes to reduce to a minimum the distance which must be covered by the mother ship, a trawler, between the base and the Lusitania's grave.

The trawler selected has a speed of 12 knots, but this speed will be halved because the ship will be burdened by the cumbersome diving tube which is Simon Lake's invention. The tube will be lowered to the Lusitania, and through it, down a stairway, the diver will reach the torpedoed ship. The tube will project 13 feet above the trawler. It is actually five feet longer than the mother ship to which it will be attached. But while the tube will cut the speed of the trawler on its runs between the base and the Lusitania, this disadvantage will to some degree be offset by the stability gained in seaway. The tube will serve as a barge.

Opinion as to the exact position of the Lusitania seems at variance. When the ship was sunk by a German submarine on May 7, 1915, her main steam pipe was broken by the explosion of the torpedo. It was impossible to reverse the engines, and the great vessel ploughed ahead for several minutes before slipping gently under the sea.

At the request the captain gave the ship's position as "about 15 miles south southwest of the old head of Kinsale." Other authorities say the wreck lies only eight miles south southwest of this point. Salvage experts expect no real difficulty in the expedition's search for the liner, for it is believed Irish fishermen have long since verified her position.

CANNON'S DEMURRER TO BE ANSWERED TODAY

Defendant's Attorney Says Corrupt Practices Act Is Unconstitutional.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The government will reply tomorrow to Bishop James Cannon Jr.'s demurrer to a District of Columbia supreme court indictment charging violation of the corrupt practices act.

Contentions that the law governing presidential elections violates the constitution are being marshalled for the defense of the Southern Methodist churchman.

His attorneys have prepared an elaborate attack both at the law's validity and the soundness of the indictment charging failure properly to report campaign contributions of $85,300 from Edwin C. Jameson, New York republican, to the clergyman's committee of anti-Smith democrats in 1928.

"We believe the law is unconstitutional and that the indictment cannot stand," said Robert H. McNeill, chief defense counsel. For the government, John Wilson, assistant United States district attorney, was ready with a 50-page reply to the bishop's demurrer to a District of Columbia supreme court indictment. All Monday's court hours will be consumed in its argument before Justice James Proctor.

Bishop Cannon planned to hear the legal contest over a grand jury's charge, which—upon conviction—carries a maximum sentence of 10 years' imprisonment and fine of $50,000.

CHARLES H. PARKER SR. BAXLEY JUDGE, PASSES

Former Legislator Dies Unexpectedly at Home on Sunday Night.

BAXLEY, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Judge Charles Henry Parker Sr., of the city court of Baxley, died of acute indigestion at his home here at 7:15 o'clock tonight. Judge Parker, a former state senator from the third district and former representative in the Georgia legislature, became ill down town after supper and died soon after he reached his home. Funeral arrangements had not been made tonight.

Judge Parker was awarded the bachelor of arts degree from Mercer University, Macon, in 1895 and was graduated from the Mercer Law school with the bachelor of laws degree the following year, being a member of the first graduating class in law at Mercer.

He was solicitor of the city court of Baxley for many years before becoming judge and served in the general assembly of the state for several terms. He was a charter member of the Baxley Kiwanis Club and a former trustee of Mercer University.

Judge Parker was a deacon of the First Baptist church of Baxley and president of the Men's Bible class. Attendance at his class this morning was 415. He belonged to the Knights of Pythias. He was a native of Liberty county and was married to Miss Lulu Way Eason, of Baxley. He has lived here since his marriage.

Judge Parker is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. J. E. Johnson, Miss Catherine Parker and Miss Lulu Way Parker, all of Baxley; three sons, Charles Henry Parker Jr., of Baxley; Robert Parker, of Baxley; and William Parker, of Baxley; and one brother, Will C. Parker, of Statesboro. Judge Parker was an uncle of Representative Homer C. Parker, of the first congressional district. He was a brother of the late Judge Thomas Parker, of Waycross.

PRESIDENT OF B. Y. P. U. AT ROME SUCCEUMBS

ROME, Ga., Nov. 29.—Otis Joiner, 26, who died here Saturday, was carried to Edison, Ga., Sunday night for funeral services and interment there Monday afternoon.

Mr. Joiner was a graduate of the University of Georgia, class of 1928, and was prominent in church affairs in Rome, being a deacon in the South Broad Baptist church, director of the church's B. Y. P. U., and president of the Rome B. Y. P. U. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beatrice Parks Joiner, formerly of Cleburne, Texas, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Joiner, of Edison, Ga. Also surviving are his sisters and brothers, Mrs. T. Turner, of Edison; Mrs. J. T. Robertson, and Albert T. Joiner, both of Atlanta.

FLORIDA CONGRESSMAN WARM SPRINGS VISITOR

WARM SPRINGS, Nov. 29.—(AP) Congressman Tom Yon, Tallahassee, Fla., visited here today. He is here today and said afterwards all indications pointed to Florida going for Roosevelt for the democratic presidential nomination.

Congressman Yon said his call was merely a friendly one. Edward Brown, Tallahassee, also visited the governor. Senator Duncan Fletcher, Florida, is due here Tuesday.

Governor Roosevelt was forced to stay indoors most of the day on account of heavy fog. His only trip from his cottage was to drive his son, James Roosevelt, and his son's wife to the railway station.

FARMERS STILL AWAIT RAIN FOR FALL CROPS

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 29.—Thomas county farmers are still waiting on a rain before planting their fall crop. The local federal weather bureau station here reports the last rain fell in this locality October 8, when one-quarter of an inch fell.

Oats should have been planted not later than November 1. One farmer said here Saturday, however, that he has planted his oats late as January 1 and made a good crop, so the outlook for the crop this season is not yet hopeless.

FIRST BRICKS LAID FOR CHURCH ANNEX

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—The first bricks were laid on the new annex for the First Christian church yesterday morning, an appropriate service being conducted under the direction of Rev. O. P. Speigel, minister of the church.

The building is being erected on a vacant lot adjoining the church edifice at the corner of Hill avenue and Toombs street.

THOMASVILLE TO SELL XMAS SEALS BY MAIL

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Joseph Hansell Merrill, chairman of the Christmas seal sales committee, states that sale of the seals this year will be largely conducted through the mails. Letters with 100 seals inclosed in each will be mailed to residents of the town, and they can accept the seals and remit through the mails for them or they can return them if they are not desired. This plan was followed last year with signal success, and very few of the seals were returned to the committee.

Legion Seeks Only Referendum On Dry Law, Says Vice-Commander

MACON, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—J. Forrest Cooper, national vice commander of the American Legion, today told officers of the Georgia department that no person, "wet or dry," can honestly have any objection to the action of the Detroit convention of the Legion in asking a referendum on prohibiting the sale of liquor.

Mr. Cooper, of Indianapolis, Miss., said "the Legion did not vote wet. It hasn't committed itself to a repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It only asked that this controversial question be submitted to the voters of the United States. No man or woman, wet or dry, can honestly have any objection to this action on the part of the Legion."

Howard B. Payne, department chairman of organization, also addressed the officers. He said that "the Legion is a dislocation of our whole industrial system. Unemployment is only an incident, a by-product, of underconsumption and overproduction. No problem, temporary or permanent, facing your post is more important than to work on this problem of economic depression."

He proposed for a Legion activity a census of all war orphans, with a view to helping them, as well as gathering statistics valuable in Legion work. He then discussed national defense.

"The Legion has always been committed to a policy of adequate national defense. We believe that is the insurance of peace," he said.

He spoke of the endorsement of the national convention of the Legion of the universal draft, and explained it would provide enlistment of capital as well as men.

"Everyone believes it perfectly right and proper to enlist the young men of America for service their country in time of war, but their duty is no less than the duty of the man who is too old to go or has factories which would profit from war."

"The universal draft should be adopted in order that there would be not a single man, a single dollar nor a single factory which would desire the war because of a chance to prosper while others sacrificed."

Mr. Cooper said a universal draft was a necessity, so that "not a single man, a single dollar or a single factory would desire war because of a chance to prosper while others sacrificed."

"God knows I don't want war," declared the Americanization chairman, "but I want a country to be as strong in ships and soldiers as any other country in the world. And the way to protect it is to have as large an army as any other country."

The two Legion leaders were addressing officers of the department of Georgia, who were called for a winter conference today by Quimby Melton, Griffin, department commander, in the Hotel Dempsey. Twenty-nine of the 119 posts of the American Legion in Georgia were represented. Others expressed through telegrams their inability to send delegations. For which made motor traffic slow was the principal excuse.

Mr. Cooper's address came during the morning session; Mr. Payne's during the afternoon, when he was scheduled to make a report for his committee of the year work.

"I ask you to think with me of some of the aims and some of the problems and some of our ideals, so you may go back home with a better idea of the whole thing is about," said Mr. Cooper. "A great responsibility today rests upon the American Legion. We have the spectre of unemployment facing the Legion as one of its problems. The serious question of national defense confronts us now. War profiteering is another of the grave questions which we are facing."

YOUNG LOWNDES GIRL DIES OF POISON DOSE

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Funeral services were held today at Cat Creek church for Miss Evelyn Moore, aged 20 years, whose death occurred at a Valdosta hospital Friday night.

The death of Miss Moore was a tragic one, it being the result of poison taken accidentally. When she became ill from the effects of the drink more than an hour had elapsed, making it impossible for physicians to save her life. Members of the family found that the poison had been carefully placed on a shelf without being marked, making it easy to take through mistake.

Miss Moore was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berry Moore, and a granddaughter of H. Gardner Moore, a prominent farmer of Lowndes county. She was a graduate of the Valdosta high school and was popular among her schoolmates. The family moved from Valdosta to their country home about two years ago.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. P. Dell, pastor of the First Methodist church, of which Miss Moore was a member. She resided in Valdosta. She is survived by her parents, one sister, Mary, and one brother, H. C. Moore Jr., and a large family connection.

Following the funeral services, interment was in the Cat Creek cemetery.

BROWN RE-ELECTED MAYOR OF NEWNAN

NEWMAN, Ga., Nov. 29.—James E. Brown, former editor of the Newnan Herald for 40 years and United States commissioner for this district, was re-elected mayor of Newnan in the city primary held here Saturday, defeating Thomas J. Glover, prominent insurance man.

The following aldermen were also elected: C. Jay Smith, Frank W. Stripling, Ben S. Orr and Thomas B. McCricken.

VALDOSTA TO RAISE SALVATION ARMY FUND

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Tuesday morning the whirlwind canvass for maintenance funds for the Salvation Army will be inaugurated with about 40 teams in the field soliciting pledges.

Although the Salvation Army is receiving a greater number of requests for help than ever, the budget has been reduced to the minimum and efforts will be made to raise this money by noon of Tuesday.

WARE COUNTY PLANS SYSTEMATIC RELIEF

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 29.—The welfare board of Waycross and Ware county, which for several years has served as a clearing house for charity and welfare activities in the city and county, will function as a coordinating agency for Christmas relief work, preparing a list of all families deserving need relief and supervising the distribution of baskets.

EMORY JUNIOR CLUB TO PRESENT PLAY

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—The dramatic club of Emory Junior College is preparing to present a play in the near future and public interest is already being manifested in the production.

The club is under the direction of Professor J. Frank Jarrell and the Emory students have already made a favorable reputation for their excellent work on the stage.

MRS. ELLA STATEN DIES AT VALDOSTA

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Ella Staten, 79, died at her home here this afternoon following an illness of more than a year. Mrs. Staten was among the oldest living residents of Valdosta. She was a native of White Springs, Fla., and before her marriage to Dr. W. F. Staten was Miss Ella Gooden. During her early life she came to Georgia to make her home, residing in Valdosta for about 40 years.

She is survived by one son, J. E. Staten, now in an Atlanta hospital, desperately ill, and two daughters, Mrs. A. M. Watson and Miss Klein Staten, both of this city. There are also surviving three grandchildren and one great-grandchild and a large family connection.

Funeral arrangements, which are in charge of John Sineath, have not been perfected, but it is believed the services will be held Monday afternoon and that interment will be in Sunset Hill cemetery.

ST. LUKE CANTATA EFFECTIVELY SUNG

A large congregation heard the famous cantata, "Seedtime and Harvest," given Sunday night by the choir of St. Luke's Episcopal church. This cantata, by the famous English composer, John E. West, proved one of the most melodious pieces of sacred music ever rendered in Atlanta. It is notable for the lovely airs in its tenor and soprano solo numbers and for the spirit of joyous gratitude which is heard throughout the numerous choruses.

The choir at St. Luke's, of more than 50 voices, is splendidly adapted to this type of singing. Under the training and direction of Hugh Hodgson, organist and master of the choir, they sang the difficult music with confidence and splendid effect. Especially was this true in the closing choruses, which lent into the majestic old "Doxology," in which the entire congregation joined.

During the offertory an unusually effective interlude was played, with Mrs. Alex King Jr., violinist; Miss Mozelle Horton, pianist, and Mr. Hodgson at the organ.

DR. R. G. SMITH HOLDS SPARTA BIBLE CLASS

Suspended Methodist Pastor Teaches in Presbyterian Church.

SPARTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Dr. Rembert G. Smith, recently suspended by the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today began teaching an interdenominational Bible class here.

Two sessions of the class will be held each Sunday in the Sparta Presbyterian church, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Smith said he addressed a "good crowd" at the first class today and that the classes would be held "for anybody who wants to come."

Twelve stewards of Dr. Smith's former pastorate here resigned when the minister was suspended for a year for "high unministerial conduct." Officials of the Presbyterian church offered the use of the building to the stewards to conduct a Bible class. Eight of them invited Dr. Smith to teach the class. Others have not announced their attitude.

Mexico Bars Minister But Welcomes Editor

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Rev. A. B. Lipscomb, minister of the Church of Christ in this city, is associate editor of the publications of his denomination, a position he found convenient on his recent tour of Mexico.

Dr. Lipscomb found when making plans to enter the republic of Mexico, that ministers of the gospel were not permitted to enter that country. He then fell back on his position as associate editor and was allowed to spend as much time in Mexico as he desired.

Extension Courses.—Providing instruction for those who cannot go to college, the division of university extension, University of Georgia, has sponsored five six years conducted classes in 104 Georgia communities, and has offered 100 correspondence courses to several thousand students in every county in the state, and in practically every state, according to Director J. C. Wardlaw. If a group of not fewer than 20 qualified persons in any Georgia community will organize for a course which can be given in an extension class and will apply for extension class instruction, the University of Georgia will endeavor to supply an instructor to meet it for weekly conference and discussions, Director Wardlaw has announced.

A student may register for correspondence instruction at any time. One-fourth of the credit required for a university degree may be earned at home through instruction in extension classes or by correspondence. Almost any course given in residence may be given in extension classes. Extension classes will endeavor to help in planning and conducting their work, or wish to secure university credit which will count toward certification.

"The Jewish Theme in Opera" Is Subject Of Dr. Dewey's Address to Hadassahs

Hadassah Cultural Group meets Monday afternoon, December 7, at 3 o'clock at Mrs. Benjamin M. Brodie's home, 625 Boulevard, N. E., and Dr. M. H. Dewey will speak on "The Jewish Theme in Opera." The cultural group is performing a fine service to both the Jewish community of Atlanta and to the members of Hadassah in presenting a very fine series of lectures by Atlanta's outstanding professors, relating to the Jewish contribution to the arts, sciences and economics. Everyone is welcome to attend these lectures and participate in this splendid program.

Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey is doctor of music at Emory University and conductor of the famous Emory Glee Club. He is in great demand as a lecturer and greatly beloved by all with whom he comes in contact. Dr. Dewey will speak on "The Jewish Theme in Opera," using the opera, "Laila," written by Halvey, a Jewish-French composer, to illustrate his address.

Other items of interest to Hadassahs will be the announcement that the southern regional president, Mrs. J. J. Hellman, a member of the Atlanta chapter, is starting on a four weeks' speaking tour of the region December 3. Mrs. Hellman will speak in 12 cities and these chapters are impatiently awaiting her arrival. She is making this tour especially to render a report on the national convention and to stimulate interest and activity in the Hadassah health program. Mrs. Hellman will return in time to preside at the southern regional conference to be held in Atlanta in January.

Senior chapter of Hadassah is sponsoring, together with the Federated Jewish Women's Clubs of Atlanta, a public bridge to be given December 16 at the Henry Grady hotel. The proceeds of the bridge will be used to redecorate the Jewish Educational Alliance. This piece of much-needed civic work will be the project for this year of the federation, which undertakes one such deed yearly. Mesdames M. Zaban and H. Goodman represented Hadassah and assisted the Federated Women's Clubs in acting as hostesses at the open house held at the Grady hospital. Hadassah was successful in co-operating with the American Legion in their Poppy Day drive. The ladies of the committee, of which Mrs. A. Cohen was chairman, made a very good showing, which was greatly appreciated by the Legion.

"The Book of Life" is being rapidly filled by mothers in honor of their children. The child's name is inscribed permanently in this book for the sum of 18 cents. When the book is filled it will be sent to Palestine as a permanent record, and the 18 cents is used to buy three luncheons for a child in Palestine and during these distressing times many poor children go about hungry and homeless; it therefore behooves us to fill the book.

Mrs. Nathan Sinkov is chairman for the Atlanta chapter. Kindly phone her your child's name for the "Book of Life" and give bread to some other child who is not so fortunate.

Wednesday Study Club

Wednesday Morning Study Club meets with Mrs. Norman T. Poole, at 493 Peoples street, Wednesday, December 2, at 10:30 o'clock.

Helen Gould Auxiliary.

Helen Gould Auxiliary No. 1, U. S. W. V., meets in the Henry Grady hotel Wednesday, December 2, at 2 o'clock, and there will be an election of officers.

Atlantans Hostesses At Party Series

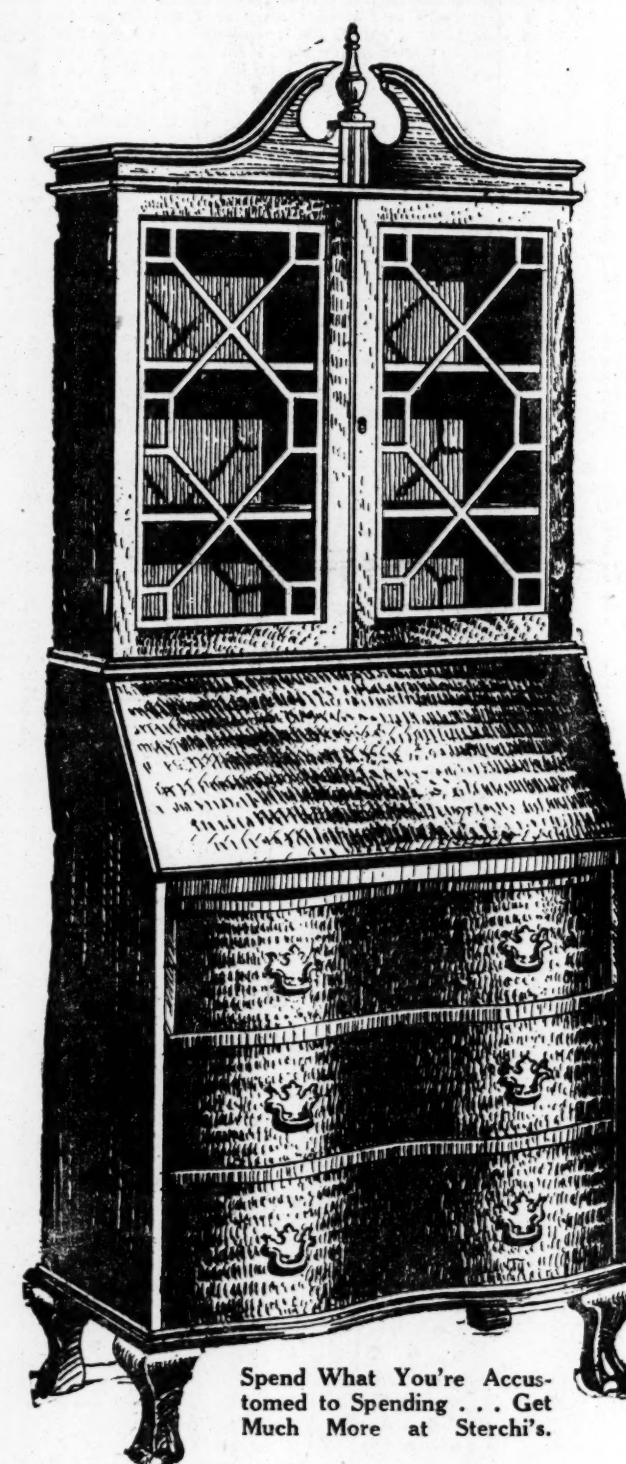

Among the social events of the Thanksgiving holidays were the parties given by Mrs. Thad Buchanan and Miss Ruby Hendrix, entertaining at bridge Thursday afternoon and at a rook Friday afternoon. The home was decorated in baskets of chrysanthemums, the color scheme being white and yellow. The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by their mother, Mrs. M. G. Hendrix.

Mrs. Fanny McCollum, whose engagement to Claude Holcomb was recently announced, was presented with a silhouette of a bride. Top score was won by Miss Virginia McCollum, and Miss Julia Thomas won the booty.

The guest list Thursday included Misses Jessie Howell, Wyolene Saunders, Bobbie Lee Smith, Mae McCollum, Fanny McCollum, Virginia McCollum, Grace Wyatt, Julia Thomas, Lucile Hendrix, Alzie Coleman, Valie Durham, Alexander Anderson, Elizabeth Griffin, Mesdames Roberta Buchanan, Glenn Brady, J. T. Morris, O. W. Hendrix, William Butt, Will Freudenberger, Lyman Parsons, James Richards, Lloyd Pritchard, C. J. Darnell, Clarke Taylor, Rebekah Phillips, James Watt and Ed Stevens.

Y.W.C.A. Secretary of South America To Address America To Address

Y. W. C. A. will be honored Monday by the presence of Miss Guthrie, executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of South America, who is visiting Mrs. J. F. Henry, chairman of the local Girl Reserve committee. Miss Guthrie will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the board of directors Monday, which was postponed until her arrival. At 12 o'clock she will be honored at a luncheon given by board and staff members. Miss Guthrie is a gifted speaker and has enjoyed wide travels in her Y. W. C. A. work. Formerly she was executive secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in Chicago. During the war she was established in various foreign posts, serving with distinguished record. Prior to going to South America she was stationed in Spain for six months and has traveled in many countries.

At 8:15 o'clock Monday morning the Y. W. C. A. will broadcast a devotional service over WGST, Miss Elna Hatcher, business girls' secretary, will be the speaker, and Miss Joy Bray, gifted soprano, will sing. Friends of the "Y" are invited to listen in and also attend their comments on the program.

Industrial Girls Entertained. Miss Florine Tate Harbin, social chairman of the industrial club, will entertain the club members at a winter roast Saturday afternoon, December 5, at her home. Games, stunts and contests will follow the roasting of the wretched turkey.

The business girls' committee holds its luncheon meeting Wednesday, December 2, at 12:30 o'clock, with Mrs. Virginia H. Givens, chairman, presiding. Miss Adeline Gillilan, personal director of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, will speak on "What Is Happening to the Business Girl of Today." Miss Gillilan comes in contact with hundreds of girls of all types and will present a comprehensive summary of the effects of the present depression. Mrs. Givens will welcome Mrs. T. M. Stubbs as a new member of the committee and outline plans for the Christmas activities to be presented by the business girls' department. The attractive menu at these luncheons are planned by Miss Sue Browne Stearns, one of the most active members of the committee.

The S. I. S. P. Club will hold an important business meeting Tuesday,

December 1, to be followed by an address by Mrs. E. J. McGehee, of the Lumbia Theological Seminary. The vesper services at the Y. W. C. A. residence Monday evening will be conducted by Miss Thelma Nolen, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., who will discuss the necessity for disarmament and present petitions for the girls to sign, indicating the program of policy.

Girl Reserve Activities. The Family Welfare Girl Reserve was organized recently, with meetings to be held each Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. clubrooms. Members of Mrs. Whitner Howard's Sunday school class of the North Avenue Presbyterian church are sponsoring and supervising the activities. Games, music, program planning and handicrafts provide worthwhile activities and amusement.

The Commercial High Girl Reserve will spend the week-end of December 5 at Camp Highland with Misses Anne Priddy, Florence Mangus and Jerry Ivey as chaperones. They will enjoy hikes, winter roasts, song-fests and story telling around the huge open fireplace in Anne Boykin lodge. A recent trip to the National Biscuit plant by the Commercial High girls was enjoyed. Due to the courtesy of Mrs. White, the hostess, the girls learned the process of cake-making on a large scale. This trip is the first of a series planned to give first-hand information about the various phases of local industries.

Change in Fees. A special introductory offer, featuring classes payable by the week or month, will attract numerous girls to the Commercial High School, where education department during December and January. Heretofore, classes have been payable either by term or by month. From October 1 to February 1, the fee for the Commercial High School will be 50 cents per week, and for the National Biscuit plant, 35 cents per week. The children's dancing classes held on Tuesdays and Thursdays will be 25 cents per week. The Commercial High School will be 50 cents per week, and for the National Biscuit plant, 35 cents per week. On the Air Today

TOSCHA SEIDEL, world-famed concert violinist, assisted by Egon Kornstein, cellist of the former Continental String quartet, will offer Mozart's facile work, "Symphonie Concertante for Violin and Viola," during his recital with concert orchestra to be broadcast over the Columbia network from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tonight.

Accompanied only by the orchestra, Seidel will conclude the program with the rendition of the third movement from "Suite in A Minor," by Sinding, Norwegian composer, who ranks with Grieg as a national representative.

A dramatization depicting the life of Roger Williams will be broadcast by the American School of the Air from 1:30 to 2 p. m. today over a coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System. The school children throughout the country will hear at this time the outstanding events in the life of the man who first waged the fight for religious tolerance in this country.

The story starts in England, where Roger Williams was a young minister. Being unable to accept the narrow teachings of the Church of England, he came over to Boston in 1630. Here he found that the Puritan religious teachings were quite as narrow and intolerant as those in England. He was forced to flee from Boston and he landed in Rhode Island, where he founded Providence.

GLADYS BRILLANT, soprano and holder of a Brillant scholarship of music, will be heard again over the Columbia network when the Evening in Paris goes on the air from 8:30 to 9 o'clock Monday.

Miss Brillant made her radio debut recently as the guest of Pierre Bruz-

Mrs. Cutts Entertains Wesleyan Group No. 4

Mrs. Harvey Cutts will entertain members of Group 4 of the Atlanta Wesleyan Club, including classes of 1920-1930, Saturday, December 5, at her home at 1765 Peachtree road, Apartment E-3. After the business meeting Mrs. Augustus M. Roan will discuss "Sidney Lanier, the Poet and the Musician." This will be the first of the club's program on Georgia's great men and women and yearbooks will be given out. The plan for the yearly program is as follows: December 5, "Sidney Lanier," by Mrs. Augustus M. Roan, and the hostess is Mrs. Cutts, 1765 Peachtree road, Apartment E-3; January 2, "Rebecca Latimer Felton," by Miss Carrie Lou Allgood, and the hostess is Mrs. George Elyan, 1710 Edman road, Apartment E-3; February 6, "Franklin D. Roosevelt," by Mrs. Douglas Kersh, and the hostess is Mrs. D. W. Clanton, 1600 Oakdale road; March 5, "Corra Harris," by Mrs. Peter Elyan, and the hostess is Mrs. Douglas Kersh, 1933 Piedmont road; April 2, "Henry Grady," by Miss Charlotte Emerson, and the hostess is Mrs. Douglas Kersh, 1933 Piedmont road; May 6, "Harry Stillwell Edwards," by Mrs. A. Worth Hooky, and the hostess is Mrs. W. R. Bentley, 1044 Rock Springs road. The election of officers will take place at the November meeting.

Ben Hill Club. Ben Hill Home Demonstration Club in the clubhouse at 1000 Peachtree street, held a meeting Monday night. A number of members and visitors were present. Plans were discussed for the Christmas party to be held December 28, at 7:30 o'clock, honoring the husbands of the members. Mrs. I. C. Bryant, the new president, presided and other new officers were in their places. The economy display proved interesting and the style show was enjoyed, a number of members taking part. All committee reports were complete.

Miss Lucy Wood, county home demonstration agent, commended the club for the wonderful work done this year. She was in charge of the Arbor Day program given as follows: Song, "Made of Wood" (tune, "America"); history of Arbor Day, Mrs. F. H. Jackson; song, "Tree Planting Song" (tune, "America"); "What the Trees Teach," Mrs. Thelma Austin leading; tree planting, Mrs. Ed Kimberley; recitation, "The Tree," Mrs. Marcus Austin. The program refreshments were served with Mrs. H. A. Baker and Mrs. L. J. McWilliams in charge, while members and visitors viewed the economy exhibits.

Burgess Children's Stories. HOW TO PLAY DEAD. BY THORNTON W. BURGESS. Little children in their play Learn a little every day. —Old Mother Nature.

Runtly, the Little Possum, had seen Uncle Billy Possum fool Flip the Terrier by pretending to be dead when all the time there wasn't a thing the matter with him. By doing this he had saved his life, and Runtly had had his first lesson in the use of his wits. It was a lesson he never would forget.

"Just how do you make 'o' self look like 'yo' was dead?" asked Runtly. "Fall right over on 'yo' side and lie limp this way," replied Uncle Billy, and flopped over on his side.

Runtly tried it, while Uncle Billy looked on. Runtly's mouth was closed and his eyes remained open. Uncle Billy shook his head.

"Yo' didn't look dead," said he. "They are too bright to look dead. If they are closed they can't give 'yo' away."

Runtly closed his eyes and Uncle Billy nodded approvingly. "Now roll 'yo' lips back and open 'yo' mouth," said he.

Runtly did as bidden, but he opened his mouth wide. Uncle Billy chuckled. "No dead Possum is ever hungry and 'yo' certainly look hungry with 'yo' mouth open that way," said he. "Just open it a 'l' bit. It isn't necessary to open 'yo' mouth, but if 'yo' open it a 'l' bit it looks mo' dead like."

He walked over to Runtly and tickled one of Runtly's ears and the little ear twitched. Uncle Billy shook his head disapprovingly. "No dead ear ever twitches," said he. "If 'yo' are playing dead 'yo' must be dead all over. Yes, sub, 'yo' must be dead all over. Isn't anything alive about a dead person. Ah done been picked up by a hunter who thought Ah was dead, and when he dropped me Ah just laid the way Ah fell. It is mighty uncomfortable sometimes, but 'yo' have to do it or 'yo' don't fool anybody. If they pull 'yo' leg 'yo' just it and 'yo' sell away. 'Yo' just got to stand that tickle. Otherwise nobody gwine to be fooled."

"How long would Ah have to play dead?" inquired Runtly. "Just as long as 'yo' enemy is about," replied he. That dog didn't stay around long, so Ah didn't have to play dead long this time, but Ah hope 'yo' noticed that Ah didn't even open an eye until Ah was sure he had gone."

Runtly nodded. "Ah sho'ly did," said he. "Nobody expects a dead person to run away," continued Uncle Billy, "so nobody is likely to keep watch. 'Yo' play dead just as long as anybody is watching. When 'yo' think the way is clear open 'yo' eye just enough to see and take plenty of time to look well befo' 'yo' move. When 'yo' are sure the way is clear 'yo' get away from that place just as fast as 'yo' legs will take 'yo'. Next to not being caught at all playing dead is the best way to get out of trouble. If they think 'yo' did no one is gwine to bother 'yo' any mo'."

"Where do 'yo' learn all this?" inquired Runtly. "It done been handed down in the Possum family ever since the world was young," replied Uncle Billy. "Ah done learn to play dead when Ah was about 'yo' age, and Ah did it so well Ah reckon Ah wouldn't be here now. Don't 'yo' ever forget the lesson 'yo' has had this day, and that it is better to use 'yo' wits and fool people than to fight."

"I won't," replied Runtly. (Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

This Column Contains Consolation for the Lovelorn—Love Never Fails to Speak.

There are certain basic fundamental laws underlying all sciences and it is equally true that there are fundamental laws underlying love. These poor lovelorn girls ignore every one of them and expect to arrive at a proper solution of their problems just the same as if they had taken those laws into account. Have you ever helped a schoolgirl with her lessons in fractions when she had failed to master the lessons that went before? It is a well nigh hopeless task without turning back and reviewing the preceding pages. The same sort of difficulties present themselves to these lovelorn girls. They have reached an impasse. They can't go forward and they don't want to turn around and go backward.

A clever girl learns early in her association with a girl that conversation is not a game, and that she can be effectively filled by compliments and she learns, too, that the more personal the compliment the better the girl likes it. It is not slow about using his new-got knowledge.

But that is not the end. That girl takes those compliments to mean something more than aids to conversational comfort. She interprets them as evidence of quickened interest and then she super-imposes a little wit thinking on top of them and the result is conviction, on her part, that the boy is dead in love with her.

It is not given to mortals to live long in a fool's paradise. Inevitably that girl must face the fact that she has made a mistake and then the poor lovelorn creature cries out for help. But how can one help a girl who fancies that she is hopelessly in love with a boy or man, who hasn't the slightest idea of pursuing the subject? There is scant chance of helping her unless one can arouse her pride, or by showing her the folly of her course, irritate her with herself to the point that she forces everything in that irritation. To pretend there is any prescription to make them fall in love, these men, would be a crime. To pretend to tell a girl how to "win him back" would be a blacker crime; for the chances are he has never been won and if he has been won and has then got away, all the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't pull him back again.

There is another type of man who fools the faithful female. He enjoys her society. He sits comfortably in her living room and is entertained by her habitually. He takes her out to the theater and to dinner occasionally. But he never speaks of marriage. He justifies his monopolizing her time and stealing her affection. She calls him reserved, or timid, or she says he takes a long time to make up his mind. She endures the silence as long as she can, and then she cries out, "What can I do to make him speak? I know he loves me or he wouldn't want to spend all his time with me." Alas! One must tell her that when a man loves he speaks. Neither reserve, nor timidity, nor deliberation, can restrain him long. He speaks. Men always speak of their love. All living things move and young living things particularly. The baby is never still. He grasps the chair and with uncertain and tottering steps he makes his way to the next chair. All the while he is strengthening his muscles. Just so the word that will justify his monopolizing her time and stealing her affection. She calls him reserved, or timid, or she says he takes a long time to make up his mind. She endures the silence as long as she can, and then she cries out, "What can I do to make him speak? I know he loves me or he wouldn't want to spend all his time with me." Alas! One must tell her that when a man loves he speaks. Neither reserve, nor timidity, nor deliberation, can restrain him long. He speaks. Men always speak of their love. All living things move and young living things particularly. The baby is never still. He grasps the chair and with uncertain and tottering steps he makes his way to the next chair. All the while he is strengthening his muscles. Just so the word that will justify his monopolizing her time and stealing her affection.

Now see the points illustrated in these letters. 1. "I am in love with a boy who is in college. He gave me a rush last summer and he appeared to love me, always saying the loveliest things to me. But he has been gone two months and I have only heard from him once. Do you think he is trying to forget me? He told a friend that he liked me better than any other girl."

2. "For more than two years I have been going with a boy who is amusing and an all-around gentleman. He is very attentive; however, he has never mentioned that celestial thing called love. I have tried every possible way to undermine his reserve and to see what lies at bottom. All in vain. We are old enough to know our own minds. If he loves me, why does he withhold it and if he doesn't why does he keep coming? I am tired of being held in suspense. I love him and I can't give him up. What must I do?"

3. "I suppose I am engaged. For four years this man and I have had an understanding. He declares he loves me better than anything in the world. He calls me beautiful and smart and says I am the only woman he ever loved, but he never speaks of marriage. I am now 24 years old and it's time loved, but I should know what to expect. I have begun to doubt whether he ever means to marry me, yet I can't believe he is a liar. How should I go about getting the full truth?"

Dear lovelorn girls, don't you see that loves proves itself as it goes and if the proof is so poor that you doubt it and you flounder and fall in tears about it, that it simply doesn't exist, or at best it is such a pale and paltry sort of love that it will neither fill your heart nor light your life?

VIVID COLORS IN SPORTS CLOTHES.

Here's a snappy model in green soft tweed-like woolen with white piping trim.

It is the jacket type dress, the favorite of the chic Parisienne and smart New Yorker.

You'll like the slimming wrapover bodice with its hip pleatum. And isn't the skirt attractive? It is cut along slender straight lines, goes to the front which flatters the height of the figure.

Style No. 755 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Plain rayon woollens, Jersey, many rayon novelties and flat crepe also suitable.

Size 16 requires 3-3/4 yards 50-inch with 5-8 yard 35-inch contrasting.

Our Winter Fashion Magazine contains styles for children, the miss, a most attractive selection for adults including slenderizing effects for stout, and a variety of Xmas suggestions.

Dr. and Mrs. McGehee Celebrate Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Today

CLARKSTON, Ga., Nov. 29.—Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Martin McGehee will be honor guests at the reception marking the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary to be given today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Pierce Milam, in Clarkston, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Fifty years ago today Miss Lula Belle Hall, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hall, became the bride of Dr. Marshall Martin McGehee, at White Oaks, the plantation home of Mr. and Mrs. Olin McGehee, uncle and aunt of the bride, in Greenville, Ga. Their children are Mrs. A. P. Milam and Mrs. Matthew Wakefield and Tom H. McGehee, of Clarkston; Hugh Olin McGehee, of Norfolk, Va.; and Sam Marshall McGehee, of Los Angeles, Cal. Dr. McGehee was originally from Pine Bluff, Ark., and was graduated in medicine from the Southern Medical College in Atlanta.

Among the prominent visitors attending the reception will be Mrs. Claude McGehee and her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Hines, of Pine Bluff, Ark.; Mrs. James Renter, and Miss Sarah Renter, Miss Mittie Blount, of Los Angeles, Cal.; and Mrs. John Gaston, of Greenville, Ga.; Mrs. Lena Terrell, of LaGrange, Ga.; and Mrs. Addie Dockery, of Dallas, Texas.

required for his Forcing Takeout. 4.—North does hold one additional trump trick, although his decision to bid for Slam is questionable.

Before entering into a detailed discussion of the play, it might be well to point out how much better the hand plays at spades than at notrump. If South played a notrump contract, West would open from either his worthless heart or diamond holding, and while South would score game, a Slam would be impossible against even mediocre defense.

When Dummy went down North saw that he had undertaken a contract which would require the most precise play to fulfill. He knew nothing of the distribution of the adverse trumps, of which there were five outstanding with one probable winner. The club situation also was far from satisfactory as only two of his losing clubs could be discarded on Dummy's hearts. North, however, made the right decision to give him a chance to make his contract and that was by the elimination of the two red suits from his own and the Dummy hand and then the use of a small trump as an exit card.

The Opening lead was the Knave of hearts, which was won by the Declarer with the Ace. Two rounds of diamonds were then taken, and the Declarer returned to his own hand with the King of spades. A diamond was then ruffed in Dummy and the King and Queen of hearts led upon which the Declarer discarded two losing clubs. He returned to his own hand with the Ace of spades to lead the last diamond to the Dummy. Both opponents had followed to both rounds of spades, so the only trump outstanding was the Queen. Now Dummy's last heart was led and trumped by the Declarer, who used his last trump to throw West in the lead on the eleventh trick.

West had nothing left in his hand except clubs. North's careful play having accomplished the desired end. The last two tricks were won by the Ace and Queen of clubs.

Failure to eliminate the red suits from both the closed and Dummy hands and the use of the last trump to throw the lead would have resulted in the defeat of the contract. Accurate bidding determines the best eventual contract, but accurate play is frequently necessary to the fulfillment of that contract.

TODAY'S POINTER. Question: What is needed to score three notrump? Answer: Honor-trick strength in the combined hands to total 5 1-2 honor tricks. (Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution.)

THE WORLD'S AT YOUR DOOR

IMMORTALIZED in story and song, the old "corner store" has passed—along with the free potato on the kerosene can, and the customers' access to the cracker-box. It was picturesque, but you never quite knew what you would find there. Half the time it was full of people who didn't know what they wanted. The other half, it was empty. It was more of a club than a store.

Today, when you enter your grocery store—or any store—you know what you want, how much you want of it, and the price you are going to pay. Advertising has rendered you this service. It brings you daily, through the columns of The Constitution, the merchandising opportunities of the whole world. In the quiet of your home, you are enabled to select everything you want to buy!

The modern way to be certain of quality and value is to read the advertisements. Representing almost every field of opportunity, the advertising columns of The Constitution bring you the fascinating story of the whole world's market-place!

BULLDOGS LEAVE ON COAST JAUNT THIS SATURDAY

Roberts, Maxwell Spend
Day in Infirmary; To Practice Thursday.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 29.—While the citizens of Athens and university students were playing the Tech-Georgia game over again, Georgia's Bulldogs, who have been defeated but once in nine hard games, spent Sunday recuperating from various bruises and injuries and making plans for the trip to Los Angeles, which begins next Saturday afternoon.

Two of the Bulldogs spent the day in the university infirmary with ailing shoulders received in the heat of battle. Jack (The Ripper) Roberts has a dislocated shoulder, received when he was tackled after a fine 25-yard run. Dick Maxwell, reserve left end, also is the possessor of a shoulder injury, suffered when he tackled a Tech back. Both Bulldogs, however, are expected to be ready in time for a little light practice before the trip to the coast begins.

DOWNS LIMS.

Captain Austin Downes has a slight limp, acquired when he returned a Tech punt for 28 yards Saturday. Austin will be okay for a little heavy practice Thursday, but the first of the boys practice this week. Mack Cronshaw, whose injured back held him out of the Tech contest, is all set for the week's first workout.

Looking back over the clash with the Yellow Jackets from the standpoint of the day-after Harry Meher let loose a little praise of his entire squad. His boys, Harry declared, fought, all played well yesterday.

Catfish Smith, who seems certain to make All-American, played an especially brilliant game. Catfish's running game, Harry said, not only did Smith do great at his end position but he kicked every extra point. After the third Georgia touchdown in the third quarter, Harry could afford to give some of his reserves a try. Smith's perfect kicks had made it impossible for Tech to beat Georgia unless they scored four touchdowns, which is a very hard thing to do in an entire game, much less a quarter and a half.

The Georgia line, Harry declared, played a fine game. He liked the direction. Kelly Catfish's running game, Harry said, not only did Smith do great at his end position but he kicked every extra point. After the third Georgia touchdown in the third quarter, Harry could afford to give some of his reserves a try. Smith's perfect kicks had made it impossible for Tech to beat Georgia unless they scored four touchdowns, which is a very hard thing to do in an entire game, much less a quarter and a half.

FIDDLIN' FULL.
Lloyd Gilmore, the Fiddlin' Full-back, put himself in line for the best string fullback post by his brilliant play against Tech. Gilmore, who has hitherto been regarded as a good fullback at picking up a few yards when needed, broke loose for several long runs and showed Harry that in Gilmore he had a fullback who will come in handy next fall. Also against Southern California.

A four-day jaunt will leave the Bulldogs in the right frame of mind for three good days of practice before they climb aboard their special train for Los Angeles. The boys are taking things easy these next three days. They do not have to practice, so they will loaf at ease during the afternoon sessions, something they haven't done since early September.

Thirty-four or thirty-five men will be taken on the Southern California journey. Harry Meher said today. That will give Thursday afternoon at the University of California, with probably two men left over. For the next few days those young men who are on the doubtful list will be on thorns. Their state of mind is now comparable to that of a man waiting to find out whether or not the governor is going to issue a reprieve at the last moment.

GEORGIA'S "TROJANS"

The third team will be used by Harry to run Southern California plays against the varsity. Coach H. J. Stegeman and Line Coach Ted Twomey brought back an assorted list of Trojan substitutes from the Southern California-Notre Dame clash and they will be re-elected by the third-stringers, who consider themselves very lucky young men indeed.

The Bulldogs will leave Athens Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock after they have received a heavy scrimmage Saturday morning. They will arrive in Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. A two-hour stopover will be made at El Paso, Texas, to allow the Bulldogs to practice Monday.

Several score building supporters will make the trip with the team. The latest Pullman equipment will make up the special, which will be the last word in railroad equipment. Charles E. Martin, assistant athletic director of Georgia faculty chairman of athletics, is in charge of arrangements.

Kentucky Wildcats Resume Training

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The University of Kentucky Wildcats, after a week-end of merry-making, were in bed early tonight. Coach Harry Gamage suspended training rules for the weekend after they tied the Tennessee Vols Thanksgiving Day, but rules went back into force this afternoon.

The sound is believed to have come out of the Tennessee game in fine shape, but nothing definite will be known until the players report for practice tomorrow. The Wildcats have a regularly scheduled Southern conference game with Florida Saturday.

Jones Is Seen As Club Leader

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Thomas Barrett Jr., in charge of organization plans of the Augusta National Golf Club, today said Bobby Jones would be elected president at the first meeting of the club here Tuesday.

BREAK of the DAY

By Ralph McGill

Southern sports editors, eight of them, representing a committee of ten, met in Atlanta Sunday and selected an all-southern football eleven. The personnel of the team will be announced next Sunday.

This team, so selected, has come to be the official all-southern so far as the players and public are concerned. It has been selected by a committee for almost ten years, and is growing steadily in authority. It is the team which is awarded the gold football medals by the Journal.

The eight writers present, who had seen practically all the Southern conference teams in action, were: William Keefe, of the New Orleans Picayune; Zipp Newman, of the Birmingham News; Bob Phillips, of the Birmingham Age-Herald; Blinky Horn, of the Nashville Tennessean; Freddie Russell, of the Nashville Banner; Morgan Blake, of the Journal; Ed Danforth, of the Georgian, and the writer.

It was a rather heavy afternoon. The committee gathers a mass of opinion from coaches and players, and to it adds its own observations. From this it is attempted to determine which are the eleven players best fitted to be placed on an all-southern team.

The committee found its task a difficult one. There were too many great backs, not enough great linemen. It was agreed that a second team could be selected which would be practically as strong as the first one. There were at least three or four good men for each position.

Football in the south this fall was on a higher plane than ever before. There were more good teams. There were probably five teams in the south which were of real championship caliber.

KEEFE SPREADS GLOOM.

Mr. William McGregor Keefe, the established and astute sports editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, brought along a message which turned the meeting into a lodge of sorrow, so far as his compatriots were concerned.

"The Tulane team this year is just a high school eleven compared to the one which will be offered next year," said Bill Keefe calmly.

This made his compatriots shriek and fall on the floor in a dead faint. When they revived Keefe was going right along. "Felt's has another year. So has Zimmerman. Joe Huggins is going to be a greater back next year than Zimmerman. Boasberg is going to make them all think that Dalrymple was just a mediocre end. Yes, sir, this year's Tulane team will be remembered as just a pretty fair team when the one of next year gets going," said Mr. Keefe.

The uncanny thing about the New Orleans writers has been the accurateness of their forecasts. Everything they predict, no matter how arrogant, extravagant or ridiculous, comes true.

They calmly stated before the Georgia game that Tulane would win by two or three touchdowns. They said that the first half of the Auburn game would be close, but in the third quarter Glover would go in and run wild. And all those things happened exactly as said.

And that's not all. While sitting at dinner Sunday the telephone in the private room rang.

"It's for you, Horn," said Keefe to Blinky Horn.

"No one here would be calling me," said Blinky.

And yet when Bob Phillips answered the telephone it was for Blinky Horn!

"It's a gift," modestly admitted Bill Keefe. "Just wait. Next year's Tulane team will be the great one."

THAT ROSE BOWL BID.

No one knows for sure, of course, what will happen with regard to the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's Day.

The latest word from my operative on the coast, however, is that the bid will not be given until after the games of Saturday, wherein Tennessee plays N. Y. U. and Tulane plays Washington State.

And don't count Northwestern out of it, despite the defeat by Purdue.

There are a lot of angles yet to be cleared up. Tulane, as the only undefeated team of importance, is still the odds-on favorite. But the invitation is yet to come.

BIERMAN SURE TO GO.

Bernie Bierman, Tulane coach, is practically sure to leave after this season and go to Minnesota as head coach, according to Keefe. The official announcement is expected either at the Rose Bowl or at the conclusion of the season, with Washington State, on Saturday.

Bierman has made a wonderful record at Tulane. He could stay there and welcome. He is leaving, the report has it, by his own choice. The report further says that Ted Cox, the big line coach, will be elevated to the head coach's job if and when Bierman leaves.

Bierman played at Minnesota and his family still resides there. It used to be thought that when a coach left a team, it would probably slip. This was disproved by the manner in which Frank Thomas stepped in at Alabama.

It also used to be a popular idea that when a team lost a number of stars it was in for a bad season. This was very emphatically disproved by Tulane, Tennessee and Alabama.

So perhaps Tulane WILL have another great team next fall.

YOUNG STARS APPEAR.

A number of young backs appeared this fall who became sensations in their first year of real competition. Homer Key and Buster Mott, of Georgia, and Beatty Feathers, of Tennessee, were the three to attract most attention. Feathers is a sophomore.

It was Feathers' kicking and the ability of Gene McEver to pass which caused Blinky Horn to write of Tennessee's defeat of Vanderbilt:

"Tennessee missed Bobby Dodd no more than John D. misses those times he gives away."

TENNESSEE AND TULANE.

There is a move on which may bring Tennessee and Tulane together in a post-season game. No, not this year. Next.

By Dillon Graham,

Associated Press Sports Writer.
Southern conference champions and the nation's only unbeaten and untied major football team, Tulane University's green-jerseyed warriors today looked toward a closing intersectional battle with Washington State in New Orleans Saturday.

With such a formidable opponent over to be met, the Tulane players had little time to nap and reflect on a season of 10 fine victories. Washington State was last year's Pacific coast titlist, and a victory over the four western teams probably will bring Tulane an opportunity to play Southern California in the Pasadena Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Coach Bernie Bierman's gridders finished their third unbeaten season Saturday with a 23-7 win over their ancient state rival, Louisiana University's Tigers. It was the 28th victory for Tulane in the past three years—against a single team.

GLORIOUS RECORD.

Tulane's record this season includes triumphs over eight Southern conference teams, one Northwestern conference team, one Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association representative. Only once, against Texas A. & M., was the Big Green Wave held to a close score, finally winning 7-0. Victories of the New Orleans team were Mississippi, Spring Hill, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Mississippi Aggies, Auburn, Georgia, Sewanee and Louisiana State.

Georgia, beaten only by Tulane, completed its conference season with a 25-0-6 decision over Georgia Tech, while Duke defeated Washington and Lee, 6 to 0, following an 88-yard touchdown run from kickoff by Lou Mason. Georgia starts practice again Thursday for its December 12 game with Southern California at Los Angeles.

The end of the conference season finds most of 1930's leaders well up at the top again. Tennessee is in second place, with Alabama third and Georgia fourth. Then in order come Maryland, Kentucky, State of Kentucky, South Carolina, Auburn, Sewanee and Duke.

TIGERS IMPROVE.

The line showing made by Auburn and Sewanee was one of the features of the season. After many lean seasons, Auburn was strong enough to win three of its six games, while Sewanee, with a squad of only 25 players, made its debut as a contender.

For the first time in many years, Vanderbilt dropped out of the select class. The Commodores lost four of their major games. Other front-rank teams which slipped this season were Florida and North Carolina.

In addition to the Tulane-Washington State game, December 5, contests bring together Florida and Kentucky at Jacksonville, Fla., in the last conference game; Maryland and Western Maryland, at Baltimore; Alabama and Chattanooga, at Chattanooga; South Carolina and Kentucky, at Columbia, S. C.; Tennessee and New York University, in New York; at Durham, N. C., a picked team from Duke and North Carolina will play stars from Davidson, Wake Forest and North Carolina State. Several other minor college games are scheduled for Christmas.

GREEN BAY WINS.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A first-period touchdown by the Green Bay Packers gave them a 7-0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in a National Football League game today. The game was a battle of the lines, neither team being able to gain much ground.

Pa Leaves for Miami To Promote Fight

W. L. "Pa" Stribling is off for his winter fight campaign in Miami, Fla., where he will put on several bouts for the Garden.

"Pa" left Atlanta yesterday for his farm at Ochlocknee, Ga. From there he will go to Miami during the next few days.

As he reaches the Florida city and gets things lined up, he has planned to open his program with W. L., his son, and Johnny Risko, but this has been delayed. He may match Risko, who gave Miami a great fight with Walker, against some other opponent, and Stribling will show there as soon as his hand is completely well.

Dave Hammond and Richmond Paul will be Pa Stribling's aides at Miami.

Boilermakers Are Troublemakers!

Coach Noble Kizer's Boilermakers, of

Purdue, boiled over on Northwestern, headed for the championship of the Big Ten, Saturday, and created a three-way tie for the title. Now Purdue, Northwestern and Michigan are placed in unprofitable positions of making faces at each other. The Wildcats' defeat also cost them a possible bid to the Rose Bowl. In the above picture may be seen Jim Purvis, who scored the winning touchdown in the last period, and Captain Chester (Ookie) Miller, center, who played a great defensive game. Yunevich, Risk, Heckler, White and Horstman are leading backs, while Moss is a good end. Wisconsin now "points with pride" to an early season defeat of Purdue, without which the Boilermakers could now do very well indeed.

TROJANS MEET HUSKIES NEXT

Little Opposition Expected; Mustangs and Gals Meet in Charity Game.

By Russell Neuland,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—(AP) The last of the Pacific Coast conference football battles will find Southern California's Trojans and Washington's Huskies meeting at Los Angeles Saturday with the Trojans overwhelming favorites to chalk up their seventh conference victory.

Unofficially, Southern California has clinched the conference title with no defeats to date. There is little apprehension on the part of Trojan followers so far as the Washington game is concerned. The Huskies were defeated by Oregon and California, and tied by Stanford, three teams which bowed to Southern California.

While the Trojans and Huskies are winding up the conference schedule, two intersectional contests are arranged in the name of charity will pit Southern Methodist against St. Mary's, at San Francisco, and Oregon State against Utah, at Portland.

Southern Methodist's Mustangs won the Southwest conference title Saturday by a tie with Texas Christian. Meanwhile, St. Mary's, beaten November 8 by the Olympic Club and by the University of California at Los Angeles, November 11, made a great comeback Thanksgiving Day with a 16-0 victory over Oregon. As a result of the showing against Oregon, the Gals evened up their chances against Southern Methodist, so far as local observers are concerned.

Flushed with its fourth successive Rocky Mountain conference title won Thanksgiving Day from Utah Aggies, Utah will face Oregon State with high hopes. Early in the season, Utah gave Washington a hard fight, losing, 7-6, and followers are confident Coach Ike Armstrong's squad can take the measure of an Oregon State eleven that won only one coast conference game this season.

MOBILE MOGULS GATHER TODAY

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A meeting of minority stockholders of the Mobile Baseball Corporation is scheduled here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to consider an offer made by Robert Allen, formerly operator of Southern association ball clubs at Little Rock and Nashville, for the Mobile franchise and the players on the reserve list.

Mobile stockholders, it is understood, will insist that Allen give assurance that he will operate the franchise in this city before they give approval. In the event that this approval is withheld, the Southern association will take up the matter at the directors' meeting scheduled for West Baden, Ind., on Tuesday, and it is understood they have authority to transfer the franchise to any city it sees fit. Byrd Douglas, majority stockholder of the Mobile club, but has not made a definite offer for all the stock of the club.

BEAR OFFICIALS HOPE TO CLOSE TWO BIG GAMES

Good Chance for Favorable
Action by Eastern Teams Seen.

Two of the opponents on Mercer University's football schedule for 1932 very likely will be Army and Colgate.

Lake Russell, coach of the Bears, has announced that he is negotiating with the West Pointers for a game with his team at West Point year after next.

Colgate, one of the outstanding teams in the east, has been extended an attractive invitation to come to Macon as the centennial homecoming day opponent for the Bears that year. Mercer will be 100 years old in 1933.

Coach Russell informed The Constitution while in Atlanta for the Oglethorpe game that he had high hopes of closing the game with Army, who defeated Notre Dame Saturday, for a game that season.

The Colgate athletic council now is considering Mercer's invitation and the information is that it is disposed to view the bid with favor. If Colgate comes to Macon, it will mark that team's second trip south. They played Vandy on a previous occasion.

If Army and Colgate are both landed, Mercer's 1932 football card will be the finest the Bears have ever arranged, and one of the best of any southern team. Thus the Bears will meet two outstanding intersectional foes in one season.

Most of Mercer's present team, which won seven games this year, will be seniors in '32, and it is expected to be a great year for the Orange and Black. Football at Mercer has come a long way under the direction of Lake Russell.

Next year, Mercer will play a strong schedule, but one with representative southern teams of her class, mixed in with one intersectional opponent.

Colgate Receives Mercer's Request.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 29.—(AP) Colgate has been invited to meet Mercer University's football team in 1933, the feature of the Georgia centennial celebration at Macon.

W. A. Reid, graduate manager of athletics at Mercer, said the team was placed before the next meeting of the Colgate athletic council.

CRACKER HEADS AT WEST BADEN

Dobbs, Spiller Need New Players, But Little Activity Is Foreseen.

By Jimmy Jones.

West Baden, Ind., is quite a ways to go, but officials of the Atlanta baseball club will be there to represent this city at the baseball meeting this week.

Spiller, last Atlanta manager, yesterday, going by way of St. Louis. He will be joined at West Baden by Jimmy Jones, Cracker manager, and at present best center fielder, a storm of uncertainty recently.

Chick Ross, club secretary, also will be there, driving over from Memphis.

Both Spiller and Dobbs were very vague about their plans before leaving. It is a known fact, however, that some cash deals are being made to bolster the Crackers—a sixth place outfit—for the 1932 pennant race.

Whether they will come at West Baden still is a matter of doubt, although Spiller has hinted at a possible deal on the way. The Atlanta roster at present has been so badly shaken by the loss of several experienced men at the various positions, but a little new blood is needed and the pitching staff could use a couple of sure-fire winners.

Chances are that a few negotiations on the probable sale of the Atlanta club will receive attention, and something is expected to be done. West Baden is said to be a very attractive spot, with many places of scenic interest. The West Baden Springs hotel will be baseball headquarters.

Bert Niehoff, manager of the Chattanooga Lookouts, will represent his team along with Joe Engel.

Now that football has quietened somewhat, baseball will hold the "hot stove league" spotlight for a while. Wednesday and Thursday will be the big days at West Baden.

West Baden is, it is just across the Kentucky border. It is the first time that city has ever been host to the baseball meeting, and this year's gathering is expected to be the biggest one in history. Last year's meeting was at Chattanooga. The year before it was held at Toledo. West Baden is said to be a very attractive spot, with many places of scenic interest. The West Baden Springs hotel will be baseball headquarters.

Tulane and Southern California Atop Chaotic Football World

By Krauthamer Rice

IN THE WAY OF A RECORD.

One often hears of a strong, stout defense, but rarely of a thrilling, exciting one. The thrill and excitement of a football game always belong in the main to the attack. Yet it remained for an Army team, full of flame and fight, to put on a defensive drive Saturday against Notre Dame that was just as thrilling and as spectacular as almost any offensive whirl ever launched.

The Army had two killing offensive thrusts in its repertoire, two brilliant scoring plays, but, after all, it was the inspired charge and sweep of the Army defense that almost literally swept Notre Dame off the field and provided one of the leading football shocks of the year.

Who could have imagined a star Notre Dame backfield, running behind a powerful line, being held to three first downs along the turf and forced to struggle through an attack with a net loss of 1 yard? Yet this happened in the fourth period!

It was easy enough to understand if you sat and watched the great Army line hold its own in every way against Notre Dame's star forwards. Then Kilday, Brown and other Cadets would rush up from secondary support, lift the green-jerseyed runners off their feet, and often hurt them back for losses of 3, 5 and 7 yards.

There were times when the Army defense, counting with such speed, spirit and power, had every appearance of an attack. The strong Notre Dame line could open no holes worth speaking about, and if any wearer of the green surged for an open spot, he was knocked down with such force that he often had to take out time to recover his breath.

It is seldom that one has seen such fierce, deadly and skillful tackling as the Army team showed in this game. And it is doubtful if any offensive in the country could have made any headway against the speed, skill and spirit shown in this Cadet defense.

It was an amazing thing to look at, just as thrilling as any series of long runs. And, in place of weakening, it seemed to gather strength and flame in the gray twilight of the last period. When Notre Dame could not earn as much as a yard, and when even such a brilliant player as Markey Schwartz was frequently on his back 6 to 10 yards back of the scrimmage line.

The Army Victory. It was not so much that the Army won as it was the manner and method of the Army victory. As a rule, it is usually Notre Dame that suddenly chews in the long-gaining, game-winning play. On Saturday it was the Army that reversed this action—not once, but twice. The first came from a spectacular pass from Brown to Stecker.

The second came from a 68-yard run by Schwartz that even the elusive Stecker never quite equalled in his career. For Stecker, after line blocking had gotten him by the line, had to scramble and fight his way through five or six Notre Dame tacklers, who had a clear shot at his flying form, but who could not stop his mad charge or bring him down.

Stecker, straight-armed, one-eyed, two-side-stepped and on-tran two more with a final burst of speed that only inspired effort could develop.

Army defenses have harassed and harried Notre Dame attacks before. But here was an Army attack that struck twice for touchdowns on long-

FINAL TRYOUTS FOR OLYMPICS FIXED AT MEET

80 Delegates Attend Gotham Session and Name Sites, Dates.

By Gayle Talbot.

Associated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Final plans for the participation of the United States in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles, including the dates and sites for final tryouts in the 27 events on the program were formulated here today by the American Olympic committee.

Eighty delegates from every section of the country attended the session which was presided over by Avery Brundage, of Chicago, president of the Olympic committee.

George W. Graves, Olympic treasurer from the Detroit, reported that in the last two months the 60 sport-governing bodies of the country have organized enthusiastically to raise funds to assure proper representation of the United States in the games, which will be held over a 16-day period from July 30 to August 14.

SEVEN SPORTS.

The Olympic games, comprising seven sports, will be held at Lake Placid, February 4 to 13.

The track and field program for men, it was announced, will embrace 21 individual events and the 400 and 1,000-meter relays. Preliminary sectional tryouts for this country's team will be followed by open tryouts at Chicago for the east and at Long Beach, Cal., for the west. Final tryouts will be held at Stanford stadium, Palo Alto, Cal., July 15 and 16. A fund of $7,000 has been appropriated to cover the expenses of the athletes qualifying in the semi-final tryouts.

Lawson Robertson, veteran coach of America's Olympic athletes, again was named head coach, with Joseph T. England as manager.

Three official marathon tryouts were designated, at Boston, Baltimore and Los Angeles, the three winners to make up the team.

Final tryouts in the women's track and field program will be held in conjunction with the National A. A. U. championships at Chicago July 15 and 16 with the team not to exceed 18 members.

Following is the list of other sports on the program, with sites and dates for tryouts:

SWIMMING.

Swimming: Men's final swimming tryouts at Cincinnati July 15, 16, 17; men's diving and water polo at Pasadena, Cal., July 24; women's swimming and diving at New York July 9 to 11.

Speed skating: Final tryouts at or near Newburgh, N. Y., on February 10.

Ice hockey: Series of playoffs between Pittsburgh, Chicago and Minneapolis and between Boston and New York to be held between December 25 and January 4, with final tryouts before January 18.

Bob sleigh: The A. A. U. championship at Lake Placid January 18 and 19 will be the official Olympic tryout, two teams to be selected in each class.

Gymnastics: Tryouts in horizontal bar, parallel bars, rings, side horse, long horse and calisthenics at New York on or about July 15; remaining events at Los Angeles on or about July 23.

Field hockey: Tryouts at Germantown Cricket Club, Germantown, Pa., December 6.

ROWING.

Rowing: Tryouts in eight-oared shells at Lake Okauchigamond in Worcester July 7, 8, and 9; other trials on the Schuylkill river, Philadelphia, July 1, 2 and 4.

Modern pentathlon: The team will number three men. Dates for final tryouts in the spring to be announced.

Equestrian: Twelve men already are in California training for the events, three to be dropped later to conform with Olympic regulations.

Weight lifting: A team of 10 will be selected on the basis of their performances in sectional tryouts.

Boxing: Final tryouts at Soldier field, Chicago, July 15 and 16, with 16 boxes to qualify for the games.

Catch-as-catch-can wrestling: Final tryouts in seven classes July 4 and 5, probably in a midwest city. Fourteen wrestlers to comprise the team.

MORRIS BROWN FACES BATTLE

Tuskegee, four-time champions of the southern colored conference, will play Morris Brown for the southern title of 1931 Saturday at Spiller's field.

Should Tuskegee win the conference title would go with the victory, with Clark University in second place. But a Morris Brown victory would give the Yellow Jackets a first place in the conference.

The game will be the last of the season for both Tuskegee and Morris Brown and one of the season's colored classics is expected.

Tuskegee's most recent triumph was scored over the Prairie View team, of Texas, a strong aggregation.

Following a week of intensive preparation Coach Abbott, of Tuskegee, will bring his team here for the big game of the season.

One of the features of the game will be the 100-piece Tuskegee band, directed by Captain Frank Druce. The band will parade through downtown Atlanta Friday. The band has made a good name for itself through its performances in leading cities of the nation.

The Morris Brown team, which lost by a field goal to Clark recently, has started work for the Tuskegee battle. Coaches Nicks and Lockhart are priming their charges in a thorough manner.

There will be a special section reserved for white fans Saturday.

Vols Make Ready For Violet Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—After finishing their regular schedule with only a 6-6 tie with Kentucky to blot their record, Tennessee's Volunteers will begin work Monday afternoon for their post-season charity game with New York University. The Vols meet the Violets in Yankee stadium Saturday.

All of the Tennessee players came out of the Wildcat battle in good condition, and the squad should be in the best physical condition of the season for their first inter-sectional clash in years. The Vols, according to latest plans, will entrain Wednesday night.

An All-American End

JERRY DALRYMPLE
TULANE'S GREAT END

IT'S NEXT TO IMPOSSIBLE TO TAKE DALRYMPLE OUT OF A PLAY

Here is a familiar figure, but a more or less unfamiliar pose to the numerous backs who have tried circling his end this season. Jerry Dalrymple, of Tulane, plays his own game of end, and plays it so well that he's regarded as a sure bet for all-American this year. Opposing backs usually see Dalrymple, bare-headed Nemesis, flying in, scattering interference, and wrapping himself firmly about their yielding bodies. He is one of the greatest defensive ends ever developed in the south.

Bulldogs and Jackets Get Breather at Last

No Soft Games Behind, Both Teams Welcome Period of Rest Before Final Test.

By Jimmy Jones.

Two football teams today are resting—just resting. That is all that the Georgia Bulldogs and the Tech Yellow Jackets have to do for the next few days. And, my, how they're going to enjoy it! There was no rest on their schedules, so the coaches had to declare one.

Both teams extended their schedules to take on the two biggest schools on the coast. Georgia, who leaves Saturday for the game with Southern California December 12, has the least time to prepare. The Bulldogs must get their uniforms down off the hook Thursday and start limbering up again.

Here in Atlanta, the Jackets are breathing a little easier. The team will rest until Monday week, pending the return of Coach W. A. Alexander from New York. Then they must begin getting ready for the charity game with California's Golden Bears here December 26.

The brief layoff will give the players time to catch up with their studies and get on the good side of the professors.

This year marks the latest a Tech season ever ran, saving in 1928 when the Engineers went to the Rose Bowl.

BADGE OF COURAGE.

That game at Athens Saturday was all Georgia, but it had its exciting moments. Tech salvaged something by that forward pass drive of 80 yards in the twilight and the Jackets showed that they still were the badge of courage by putting over a score when they were hopelessly beaten and five touchdowns to the bad.

Field hockey: Tryouts at Germantown Cricket Club, Germantown, Pa., December 6.

ARMY VICTORY BOOSTS EAST'S GRID STANDING

Other Intersectional Wins Were Scored Mainly Over Minor Teams.

By Dixon Stewart.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(UP)—With Army boasting a decisive victory over a Notre Dame team previously regarded as one of the best in the history of the South Bend school, the east has regained a large share of football prestige lost in previous intersectional test seasons.

The east ranks high in the intersectional standings with 33 victories, 19 ties and 2 defeats, but until Army scored its surprise victory the seaboard sector could find little consolation in the standings.

Most of the eastern victories were in games between minor teams from other sectors and major clubs of the east. Harvard was credited with a fine victory over Texas and Pennsylvania with a triumph over Wisconsin, but these games could not offset Notre Dame's victories over Penn. Pitt, Navy and Carnegie. Georgia's triumph over Yale and N. Y. U. and Oregon's upset victory over N. Y. U. and other defeats in tests between major eleven.

BETTER RECORD GOOD.

Pittsburgh, regarded as the leading contender for eastern honors, improved the east's record for the season with a 40-0 victory over Nebraska.

THE GUMPS—WEDDING BELLS

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

She shook her head. She was wondering if she shouldn't have tried first to get a job independently. Carlos was excited over the idea that they could devise a smart routine and get in a Broadway show. Irma was not given to day dreams at this stage of the game. She was thinking how fortunate it would be if they could get some vaudeville-looking. Still, vaudeville would be difficult for her. She would not be able to command a salary large enough to have the baby and Miss March travel with her. To leave him home would be hell. Besides, for Spanish dancing an act had to be beautifully dressed. Where would she and Carlos get a $1,000 for costumes, to say nothing of cycloramas and drops?

"You know," she said, "you and I must have put aside instead of sugar in that coffee. Where could we get money enough to dress the act?"

"I'm telling you, darling, we're going in a Broadway show. They'll furnish costumes."

"Yes, but just supposing we're too good for Broadway shows," she inquired grimly, "or they haven't enough money to pay us? In that case we'd have to try vaudeville. Where would we get drops and costumes?"

He stared meditatively at the crowd around the coffee slot. "I don't want to go in vaudeville," he said. "I can't bear being thrust into a new town every few days. It's depressing. If I wanted to go in vaudeville, I could have gone long ago. I could have gone with the Dorothy Diamond act."

"Well, you know, I have terrible responsibilities, Carlos. I'll tell you what. We'll arrange some routines together. It won't hurt either of us to work them out. Then if one gets a chance at a job, okay. You see, I may have to try for a chorus job. All right, we'll leave it that way. He sighed deeply. "The need for money is a nuisance, isn't it?"

"You talk as though you didn't have to worry about money."

"Well, of course, I have no responsibilities and I live very cheaply. You must come to see my place. It's really very pleasant."

Though doubtful that anything would come of their partnership, Irma worked hard over the routine that Carlos arranged. He had a tremendous flair for the dramatic and it took a prominent place in his dance creations. Thus she and Carlos were no characterless senorita and senor. They must have names to please his creative sense and there must be a story. The first dance she and Carlos worked out together was tentatively entitled "Saint's Day."

"You see," he explained, "we are Manolo and Dolores on our way to church on St. Mallo's day."

"Who was St. Mallo?" Irma asked. "Don't interrupt, dear, just listen. He was a slim, white hand reprimanding at her. We are trying to walk to church in a pious and dignified manner. Eyes cast down, measured steady gait, but the love of dancing is too strong. You see, we dance. The church bell tolls and we are reminded of the day's sanctity. Our dancing stops and we take up the slow walk again but once more our feet protest against the solemn steps. This happens two or three times. Our last dancing phase is thoroughly out of keeping with the day and our destination. It is fit for nothing but a gay fiesta. The saint which has correctly covered your hair is gone. We are about to kiss when the church bell tolls again and we take up the burden of religion. Reluctantly but obediently you retrace your steps and we exit trading with decorum and demureness," she said. After all, it would do her good to get in as much practice as possible.

The second dance which Carlos invented was called "The Photograph."

It was the Apache dance translated into Spanish. Carlos is in possession of a photograph of a lovely, pious girl, Irma, as his sweetheart, is a woman of the streets, seeking to take it from him. Her desire to see it destroyed apparently makes her careless of the abuse which she takes in her efforts to wring it from him. At last she gets it, tears it into pieces and is promptly throttled for her trouble.

It was on a day when Irma had discovered that Bill's five hundred dollars was perilously close to two hundred that the phone rang insistently. Irma jumped excitedly from her chair.

It was Carlos. "Irma, can you meet me downtown right away? I think we have an engagement."

"Not really. Really, Carlos? But we have no clothes or anything."

"Don't worry. The Lord will provide. Now listen, come to the Club Denise right away. We're going to dance for a man named Carroll there. I've got the music. Now listen, let me do the talking. Don't open your little mouth to even say 'erets.' I've got it all set just what's to be said."

The Club Denise had been a stable when New York had been able to fit stables into its life. Now, as a second-rate night club, it did a big enough business.

When Irma entered she found Carlos and the master of ceremonies, one Robbie Ray, deep in conversation. Carlos presented Robbie to Irma. Mr. Carroll had not appeared yet. He was to be along any minute. Meanwhile Robbie explained that he had thought of his friend Carlos the minute the St. Georges had walked out.

"Why did the St. Georges walk out?" Carlos asked.

"Miss St. George got high hat about Carroll's suggestion for costumes. He thought she should wear a net skirt. My God, she really did need something to detract attention from her face."

"Will I have to wear a net skirt?" Irma asked nervously.

"Well, your face is okay," Carlos said.

"Yes," said Robbie, "but he likes nude or semi-nude dancers. He'll try to get you to strip but if your dancing is okay he'll take you anyhow. Here's Mr. Carroll now."

Mr. Carroll had risen out of the shadows thus causing three sinking hearts. One could not help but wonder how much of the conversation he had overheard. He was a little man with a hard, swarthy face. Irma felt that he had stepped directly from the pages of a gangster story.

Robbie said, "Mr. Carroll, this is Miss Irma and Mr. Gonzales."

Mr. Carroll greeted and followed his guest with a great shout. "He's calling the piano player," Robbie explained.

"Here we go," Carlos said. "God have mercy on two mortals whose music is going to be played by a man who didn't even run through it first."

"It's all right," barked Carroll, who seemed to have frighteningly sharp ears. "I know how Frank plays. I want to see how you dance."

Robbie and Carroll were dim, critical forms in the shadows as Gonzales and Irma began.

Mr. Carroll did not speak till the dance was over; then he said, "Got another one to show me?"

Irma with her unhappy faculty for anticipating the worst expected him to add, "because that one's no good."

They did "The Photograph."

When Irma and Carlos, breathing heavily, walked into the shadows Carroll repeated his question: "Got another one to show me?"

Carlos lied lightly. "We have several, but wanted to show you two that had never been presented in public before. I've always held them for a discriminating audience."

"Yeh?" Carroll growled. "Well," wheezing suddenly to Irma, "what kind of costumes do you use?"

"Very attractive ones," Carlos said saving Irma a difficult moment.

"What's the matter? Can't she talk?"

"Not so well after that last dance. It's an effort for her. Go sit down somewhere, dear, till you're rested."

Irma sat down but not so far away that she could not hear the conversation.

"In the first dance she wears a dress that could not be duplicated under three hundred dollars anywhere in town. It's beautiful."

"Does it show her legs?"

"No, it's ankle length. It shows chest, back, neck and is extremely beautiful."

A population of 500,000 by 1937 is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for ATLANTA'S CENTENNIAL.

The Constitution's Weekly Business Review

EDITED BY M. D. GLEASON

Atlanta's merchants and manufacturers can supply you. ATLANTA ALWAYS AHEAD

BROWNLEE & LIVELY TO CUT MILK PRICE

Located on one of the highest elevations on Briarcliff road is the large modern dairy farm of Brownlee & Lively, one of the pioneer dairy farms around Atlanta.

This progressive dairy farm is located on a large tract of land, some parts of which the rain falling on it finds its way to the Gulf of Mexico and more of the same water joins one of the many little creeks of Yellow river and eventually finds its way into the Atlantic ocean.

This particular site was selected nearly 20 years ago by the senior member of the firm, W. J. Brownlee, who made a thorough survey of the territory around Atlanta, looking for the ideal site, and in the well drained pasture, farm land wood lands here, he located his first modest cow barn.

From the outset Mr. Brownlee told his first customers, "I will not sell anyone any milk that I would not give my own family." And he prides himself that some of his first customers of 18 years or more are still taking milk from him.

He and his son-in-law, W. J. Lively, the junior member, possess scores of testimonials that customers of many years standing have written for them, many of them going into detail telling how thankful that in certain periods of sickness or poor health they were able to get plenty of good rich milk as their principal food diet and drink.

Brownlee & Lively specialize in only one kind of milk and that is natural cow's milk, produced from a fine herd of 100 cows of the best Jersey and Holstein breeds. Plans are under way now to increase the herd.

They feed extra high per cow of a special balanced feed, and are rewarded by a milk production that is extra rich in cream and butter-fat. They go to extremes in seeing that every bottle, quart or pint, of their milk is safeguarded all the way to their customers' homes.

Brownlee & Lively have never thought it wise to try and carry milk all over Atlanta and delivering milk several hours after it leaves their cool storage rooms, so they are just soliciting new customers fairly close to the homes of their present customers who for the most part are on the north side of town.

Beginning tomorrow, Brownlee & Lively announce a reduction in the

EACH BATTERY CELL SHOULD BE TESTED

Few motorists realize the necessity of testing the charge of a storage battery at regular intervals.

"This point is one of the important features of our Willard service to motorists—testing each cell of the storage battery," says S. B. Mellen, of the Atlanta Willard service station.

"Each cell should be tested periodically at a battery service station. As the specific gravity of a battery varies with the period of discharge, testing the gravity with a hydrometer keeps a check on the state of charge of the driver's battery. Each cell should be tested individually and a record made of the readings taken at the time of test.

"There is no season of the year when the testing of the battery should be neglected. In the winter time the battery should be tested to see that the state of charge is high enough to keep it from freezing and in the summer time the battery should be tested so that it will not be ruined by excessive charging.

"A definite record is taken, when we test a battery of the specific gravity of each cell, written down in the presence of the car owner on a test card supplied him. Any variation in subsequent readings would be an indication of trouble, either in the battery or in the electrical system. The prompt removal of the trouble will save the motorist time, annoyance and money. Testing is done for the customer's protection."

Lotzner Tester, vice president in charge of sales of the Perfect Circle Company, said that October replacement sales of the company through automotive equipment dealers proved to be the largest October in the company's history, registering a gain of 71 per cent over October last year.

price of their milk. The senior member stating, "The great improvement we have been making in all departments the past few months—feeding, production, refrigeration, bottling and delivering—enables us to take our old and new customers in copartnership, as it were, and divide profits with them."

This splendid modern dairy is as near to north side people as their telephones.

Quickening in Retail Trade Week's Best Business News

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—Money flowed a little more freely over the retail counters for necessities during the past week; electric power was used more liberally and in certain parts of the country, notably the south, there was considerable quickening of activity in textile mills.

These gains were the most cheerful contributions to business news. Otherwise there was little change except for renewed weakness of important commodities. Wheat closed the week, having lost about two-thirds of its maximum gain during the recent sharp upswing. Cotton had lost practically all of its less spectacular gain.

Steel production fell off to 29 per cent of ingot capacity—but this was a normal development for this time of the year. From Detroit came reports that the automobile industry is putting more men back to work and in December a gain in production is expected.

The larger industrial centers reported there had been a substantial number of buyers making inquiries. Purchases, however, were confined largely to hand-to-mouth requirements. Inventories were still low in practically all lines of activity, from the manufacture of steel to the retailing of men's apparel. Manufacturers again expressed conviction that only a moderate quickening of buying would show immediate step-up in manufacturing activity.

Good news came to the copper industry when announcement was made that Belgian-owned mines in Africa had finally come under the healthful influence of production curtailment. Immediate response was felt in the market, copper metal, which earlier in the week went to a record new low price of 6 1/4 cents a pound. On the day the announcement was made, offerings at that figure practically vanished from the market.

Emphatic gains in textile production were recorded in the south, where employment increased. Some mills which had been idled for several months showed interest in showings of new rugs, furniture and ornaments. There was a significant gain in sale of household furnishings.

Weather has played an important part in holding down retail sales. Throughout the eastern states, unseasonable warmth slowed down the purchase of blankets, overcoats, gloves and other winter articles. Sales of men's wear were at low ebb, but stimulus was noted in certain articles of women's wear, notably stockings. As a result of price reductions recently made in hosiery, sales have increased more than seasonally and Pennsylvania mills have employed additional workers. Christmas goods are moving a little more rapidly at retail, owing to concerted efforts to have Christmas shopping done early.

The southwest is looking up. Reports indicate that confidence has replaced fear. In the eastern half of the country, road building and other construction work has also helped. On the Pacific coast, lumber is still in the depths, but recent rains and snows have broken a long drought.

Sharp decline of the English pound sterling caused some unsettlement in foreign buying, but this downswing was apparently nothing more serious than a combination of natural needs which came at the same time and speeded sterling on its way down. Imports of goods from abroad are expected to be held in check.

The failure of important banking interests to support the securities markets is based on their apprehension regarding the German financial situation. The banking fraternity is desirous that private credits be given precedence over reparation payments, but the French government is determined that private credits be subordinated.

There appears to be a hopeless deadlock but the Street, ever hopeful and constructive, is looking for the international conferences to be held in Berlin beginning December 10. RAILROAD SITUATION.

While the German financial conditions have been the most important unfavorable influence on the stock market, there also has been a considerable unrest growing out of the predicament of the railroads. The Street is now looking forward to the meetings of railroad labor executives scheduled for December 7 and 8 in the hope that something favorable will result.

While it is acknowledged that the poor earnings of the transportation companies are due to the low ebb of general business, there is no question that a reduction in the wages of railroad employees would aid the common carriers to carry their burdens until general trade and industry pick up. The trend of New York city bank and trust company stocks was again downward during the past week, as indicated by the dollar index figures compiled by R. H. Rose & Foster. Sixteen issues as of November 28 yielded an average of 7.13 per cent, compared with 8.50 per cent November 10. Based on the November 28 figures, the 16 issues are selling at 13.1 times above current earnings, against 14.2 times November 21.

FURTHER CUT SOUGHT IN SUGAR EXPORTATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—Just 365 days after he started discussions which resulted in the international agreement to limit exports of sugar during 1931, Thomas L. Chadbourne, New York lawyer, today announced he would seek a further curtailment in 1932.

He expressed confidence the further limitation of production would be agreed to by the sugar-producing countries which will send representatives to the International Sugar Council at Paris December 14. Mr. Chadbourne, as last year, will attend the council as one of the representatives of the Cuban Institute.

"Such curtailment will be very difficult to accomplish," he said. "But my contact with the sugar producers of the world convinces me that now, with definite facts available, which intelligent action may be based, these producers will have the intelligent self-interest to co-operate in taking the measures necessary to stabilize conditions in this industry."

"It is in the interest of the whole world situation that they should do so," he said. "The sugar market has already done more in this direction than any other industry. When normal economic conditions begin to be restored, the promptness of sugar's reward will be in keeping with its courage and foresight."

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—In the absence of any prospect of an immediate change for the better in business and financial conditions, indications are that trading in the stock market will reflect further liquidation. The fact that most stocks closed Saturday under the lowest levels recorded for the current bear market warrants the expectation that the liquidation of interests and insiders of big corporations still have misgivings with regard to the future.

Further decline of the general bond market to new low levels is also a source of discouragement. Investment bankers attribute the weakness of bonds to scattered liquidation.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON MOVES ERRATICALLY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29. (AP)—The cotton market was fairly active during the past week notwithstanding the Thanksgiving holiday. The price movement was decidedly erratic. In early week, values declined moderately owing to the final liquidation of the December position in advance of the first notice day on Tuesday. This decline was promptly recovered when it was seen that the volume of notices was moderate and they were all promptly stopped by large spot interest.

Later in the week prices eased off owing to weakness in stocks and grain, and although the week closed rather steady, prices showed net declines, compared with the preceding Saturday, of a little less than $1 a bale with the January option at the 6-cent level.

The market received support from time to time by good trade buying on the scale-down. This class of buying served to absorb the hedge selling, which, owing to the thorough liquidation of the December option, had to be placed in the later months. Hedging was only in moderate volume for this period of the season.

The market received more or less support from the good demand for spots in southern reporting markets. It was claimed that the co-operatives were good buyers and there was also rather liberal buying in Texas and Oklahoma markets by Japanese interests. This Japanese demand was attributed by some to the war conditions prevailing in the far east, but this was denied by the acting consuls here, who said that the demand was due to the attractive prices and the desire of Japan to provide for its expanding textile industry.

Weekly statistics were favorable, particularly mill takings, which exceeded both the preceding week and the corresponding week last year. Exports were also large, exceeding the corresponding week last year by a considerable margin. Pacific coast ports reported large clearances to Japan and China.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans market during the past week, compared with a year ago:

The National City Bank of New York, as fiscal agent, is notifying holders of $100,000 bonds of the sinking fund and will be payable on and after January 1, 1932, that $122,000 principal amount of bonds has been selected for redemption February 1, 1932, at par and accrued interest.

The people who buy a small amount or a large amount from the East Side Lumber & Coal Co. (and they sell a great deal of coal and coke, too), are just as pleased with their prompt and courteous service and friendly dealings as they are with the high quality of their materials and most reasonable prices, and many of Mr. Robinson's first customers still buy from him.

Car Plunges in Water, Carrying Five to Death TYLER, Texas, Nov. 28. (AP)—Five persons, two men, one woman and two children, were drowned today at Prairie Creek, eight miles north of Tyler, when the automobile in which they were riding left the highway and overturned. They were pinned underneath in deep water. They had not been identified.

Tentative identification of the woman indicated that her name was Mrs. A. M. Hughes.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE No. 61

With the coming of dawn, Tarzan was awake and wandering about the palace grounds, meeting none but slaves. He stumbled upon a wall-enclosed, gateless garden that aroused his curiosity, and encircling his grassy slope, the ape-man threw over a tree branch projecting beyond the wall. With the ease of a young monkey he then scrambled to the summit. From here he looked down into a lovely garden. Without waiting to know whether it contained humans or wild beasts, Tarzan dropped lightly to the sword inside.

He began a systematic investigation of the enclosure, hoping to come upon the object of his long and difficult search. Everywhere were charming vistas of artificial streams, and little pools flanked by flowering bushes. It was very evident the place was not for general use. Filled with admiration, and as always moving silently, he suddenly beheld the first H-don female he had seen since entering the palace. Young and beautiful, she stood in a little open place, stroking the head of a brilliant bird she held.

As Tarzan left the scene of the banquet orgy, the slave who had shown surprise at seeing him whispered to one of his companions. "There is but one to tell this to," said the other. "That is the high priest. But before you make it known, exact from him the promise of our freedom." Later, the slave came to the temple gate asking to see the high priest on a matter of great importance. He was admitted, though the hour was late, and when Lu-don had heard his story he promised him many gifts beside his freedom if he could prove his claim correct.

As the slave talked with the high priest in A-lur, the figure of a man groped its way around the shoulder of the Father of Mountains. The moonlight glistened from the shiny barrel of an Enfield strapped to his naked back, and brass cartridges shed reflected light from his polished case where they hung in the bandoliers across the broad, brown shoulders and the lean waist.
